ALL BIDS FOR SHIPS WILL BE REJECTED

Board Announces That New Negotiations for Fleet's Sale Will Be Opened

Washington, Feb. 18.—The Shipping Board proposes to proceed with the sale of the former German passenger ships.

Chairman Payne of the Shipping Board made this statement to the Senate Commerce Committee today.

He declared that all bids and proposals for the ships thus far received would be rejected and new negotiations would be undertaken if suitable offers were received.

Chairman Payne presented a resolution to the committee, drawn by the Shipping Board, recommending the rejection of the bids and the entering of new negotiations. He said the board expected to put this recommendation into effect.

Payne declared it was costing the government $12,000 a day to hold the vessels. He denied charges that the International Mercantile Marine, the leading bidder, is a British concern.

Arguments advanced by Payne to justify the proposed sale of the former German ships were riddled by Raymond B. Stevens, vice-chair-

Goodwin Nominated for Auto Registrar

FRANK A. GOODWIN

Frank A. Goodwin of East Boston, former Street Commissioner of the city, was nominated for the newly-created office of State Registrar of Motor Vehicles today by John N. Cole, State Commissioner of Public Works.

The nomination goes to Governor Coolidge and his council, accompanied by strong recommendations. The position carries a salary of $4,500. Mr. Goodwin is a lawyer. He was a member of Boston City Council in 1908 and 1909 and street commissioner from 1914 to 1918.

As registrar of motor vehicles he will have absolute authority to regulate motor traffic in Massachusetts. This power, before the merging of various State boards, was vested in the State Department of Waterways and Public Works.

MOVE TO UNSEAT LYNN MAYOR

Jitney Men Circulating Petition for Recall; Will Include Four Councilmen

Papers petitioning the recall of Mayor Walter H. Creamer of Lynn were taken out by jitney bus men of that city today, following the action of the City Council in stating that their licenses would be revoked.

It was stated that within two days similar papers would be taken out for the recall of at least four members of the council, including President S. Walter McDonough.

McDonough announced last week that the jitney men would be put out of business by May 1. The council at its meeting last night advanced the time to March 1. There will be a public hearing tomorrow night, at which a large attendance is expected.

CARANZA HASN'T HEARD OF KIDNAPING OF ADAMS

Mexico City, Feb. 18.—It was stated today at President Carranza's office that no news had been received from any official source regarding the reported kidnaping of Wilson Welsh Adams, an American, by bandits in Zacatecas.

The State Department in Washington received word Adams was being held for $25,000 ransom. Adams' home is in Los Angeles.

BLIZZARD KILLS 3 IN NORTHWEST MICHIGAN

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 18.—Northwestern Michigan is in the grip of the worst blizzard of the Winter, raging for three days. $100,000 LOSS IN SOUTH ST. BLAZE

LEATHER STOCKS RUINED

Valuable Sheepskins Are Also Destroyed by Smoke and Water

Sheepskins and fancy glazed leather, valued at almost $100,000, were destroyed or damaged by smoke and water in a short but stubborn fire today in the five-story brick building at No. 67 South street.

The fire started from an undetermined cause at the rear elevator on the fourth floor.

It went through the flooring to the stock of sheepskins valued at between $30,000 and $35,000 stored on the floor occupied by the Rosenthal Brothers Leather Company, whose offices are on the street floor.

On the fifth floor the stock of glazed leather of the Continental Leather Company, was damaged by smoke and water. This stock was valued at $60,000 and will have to be sent back to the mills to be refinished. The upper floors of the building were used as storerooms.

The firemen were obliged to fight the blaze with extension ladders from the rear through the Essex street court side.

CAILLAUX, IN PRISON, PREPARES HIS DEFENCE

Paris, Feb. 18.—Former Premier Joseph Caillaux, on trial on the charge of treason, spent today in prison putting the finishing touches on his speech of defence. The French Senate, sitting as a high court of justice to try M. Caillaux, was not in session today. It will not convene again until Friday. M. Caillaux's chief of counsel is M. Demange, who defended Captain Dreyfus, while Theodore Lesvouve, the procurator of the republic, will have as his first assistant Judge Mornet, who convicted Mata Hari, the German woman spy.

ARREST SUSPECT IN STORE DELIVERY WAGON

Arrested in a delivery wagon containing insured parcels from a Tremont street department store, Walter Cramer of Worcester Street explained that he was "taking a ride," but he was held in $1,000 for a continued hearing next Tuesday, when he appeared today in the municipal court. The store in question has lost packages valued at $700 during the past few weeks.

3 DIE IN HOTEL FIRE

Sen. Lodge's Friend Arrested, Sues

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 18.—John Jefferies of Boston, a former captain in the American Aviation Corps in France and nephew of Mrs. William R. Wister, No. 1112 Spruce street, has instituted proceedings against Joseph Savage, a policeman of the Fifteenth and Locust streets station, for false arrest, according to Jefferies' counsel, Edward L. D. Roach. Mr. Jefferies was arrested as a suspicious character by the policeman at 1:15 Sunday morning near Twelfth and Walnut streets.

Savage said that he arrested Mr. Jefferies after he had given him several warnings to leave the neighborhood.

Mr. Jefferies came to this city from Washington, where he had been visiting Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, a lifelong friend of the Jefferies family in Boston. He told Mr. Roach that after his arrest he was given no opportunity to communicate with anyone.

Mr. Jefferies comes from a widely known family in New England. At the outbreak of the war he was among the first 1,000 Americans to reach French soil under command of American officers.

After telephoning to his aunt, Mr. Jefferies was invited to dinner at her home. He left his aunt's residence be-

AMERICAN HELD BY VILLA

Mexican Bandit Demands $20,000 Ransom From State Department

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Francisco Villa, Mexican bandit leader, is holding Joseph E. Askew, an American, for payment of a ransom of $20,000 by the State Department of the United States, according to information furnished by the State Department this afternoon.

Villa maintains that the $20,000 is an old debt owed him by the State Department, the advices declared.

Villa aided an American mining concern to get a large amount of silver bullion out of Mexico during one of the periods of civil warfare, and he was to receive $40,000 for his services. He was paid $20,000, but the State Department advised the mining company against the payment of the other $20,000.

Villa maintains he will hold Askew until the State Department pays the $20,000 which it prevented Villa from receiving several years ago, according to the advices today. Villa has declared he will not accept ransom from sources other than the State Department.

Askew was kidnaped following a raid on a ranch near Lerdo, Durango, on the night of February 1.

NAME BOARD TO SEE THAT GERMANS ARE TRIED

London, Feb. 18.—An inter-allied commission has been appointed by the premiers to insure that Germany keeps her promise to put German war offender on trial, it was announced this afternoon. Germany has sent a communication to the allies giving assurances that "the German nation as a whole and the government will co-operate to insure the trial of the German officers against whom the allied governments have lodged complaints."

DENIES ALLIED NOTE IS HARSH

A. Bonar Law Cheered for Reference to America and Wilson's Adriatic Protest

London, Feb. 18.—It was officially admitted here this afternoon that President Wilson's note protesting against the settlement of the Adriatic problem by Great Britain, France and Italy threatened the withdrawal of America from the peace treaty.

London, Feb. 18.—A. Bonar Law, speaking for the government in the House of Commons this afternoon, denied that the allied reply to President Wilson's Adriatic protest was harsh in tone. It was carefully drawn and revised, he said.

Mr. Law's declaration that "all recognize the importance of a good understanding with America" was greeted with cheers.

Washington Sees New Crisis in Fiume Note

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Receipt here today of the council of premiers' reply to President Wilson's Adriatic memorandum may cause a real crisis in the peace negotiations of the United States. The reply, sent from London last night, was being decoded today for the President.

If the foreign leaders have not given satisfactory answer to President Wilson, it is believed here he will take further steps, which may mean that the United States will withdraw from further participation

Giants' Star Fielder Accused of Theft

BENNY KAUFF IS HELD IN THEFT

Outfielder of Giants Faces Charge in Connection With Stealing of Auto

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 18.—Benny Kauff, star member of the New York Giants, faces arraignment in court here on the charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of an automobile.

The auto was one Kauff declared he bought from a man named Dorst, on October 27 last at the Polo Grounds, recently selling it to Ignatz Engle for $1,800.

Joseph A. Volter complained to the police that the car was his property and had been stolen.

Kauff was arrested at his home here and after three hours at police headquarters was released on bail. Kauff declares he is innocent.

A letter written by Frank Hone, half-brother of Kauff, fell into the hands of the police and is held as evdence. Hone is out on bail after being arrested in Lancaster, O., on a charge of stealing an automobile, which he is alleged to have sold there.

REPORT 40,000 CASES OF INFLUENZA IN VIENNA

London, Feb. 18.—Forty thousand persons in Vienna are stricken with the influenza, said a dispatch from that city to the Daily Express today. Lack of fuel is said to be mainly responsible. An all night funeral service has been inaugurated by the Vienna street railway system and special cars have been constructed to hold thirty-two coffins.

SOVIET CONFISCATION 'LIKE LIQUOR SEIZURE'

Washington, Feb. 18.—Confiscation of property by the Soviet government of Russia was compared to the confiscation of liquor by the United States government by L. C. A. K. Martens, "ambassador" from the Soviet government, today before the Senate committee investigating alleged Bolshevist propaganda.

ACCUSE AUNT OF TAKING CHILD

Extradition Proceedings Conducted Before Governor Bartlett at Concord, N. H.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18.—The kidnaping of seven-year-old Constance Hope Winter, an Iowa heiress, and a chase extending all over the United States, was revealed here today by extradition proceedings before Governor Bartlett.

Miss Ella Buchanan, Red Cross nurse and sister of the child's mother, is accused of stealing the child.

It appeared at the hearing that she and the child have been living on a farm in Belknap County under the name of Forbes since November, when Miss Buchanan bought the farm.

With them has lived Helen Winter, twenty-one-year-old half-sister of the child, known here as Helen Forbes.

It developed today that although detectives searched every corner of the country, it was not until a few days ago that she was found, when Pinkerton detectives accompanied by a sheriff, fought their way through a blinding snowstorm to the farm.

A letter written by Helen Winter to an admirer in Iowa led to the hiding place of the child and her aunt.

It developed that Constance Hope Winter, also known in Iowa as Anna Marie Winter, vanished from the home of her maiden aunts, sisters of her eighty-year-old father, October 14 last. Search for the child began at once.

SUPPORTED BY AUNT.

It also came out at the hearing that from her birth until May 16, 1916, when "the father stealthily took the child from the home of Ella Buchanan," she had been supported and cared for by the aunt, her father paying only $3 a week for her support, and that from property left by the child's mother.

According to evidence presented to Governor Bartlett by Colonel Jewett, attorney for Miss Buchanan, the child was born in May, 1913, and was so small that she could be held in the palm of the hand. Miss Buchanan mothered the infant until she was kidnaped from her by the father, who took her to his maiden sister's home. Evidence showed that until taken there by the father the child had never seen the aunt, who held no social intercourse with the father.

A lengthy opinion by Judge Evans of the Iowa District Court, who awarded custody of the child to the father as her legal guardian, was read, as was an opinion from Judge Ladd of the Iowa Supreme Court, who stated that Judge Evans' decision "might well have been different." In his opinion Judge Evans warmly praised Miss Buchanan, and referred to the father as "not gifted as a housekeeper," and as having failed to keep the affection of his older daughter.

HELD CHILD ON KNEE.

Miss Buchanan appeaerd at the hearing finely dressed, in a fur-lined coat, and during the proceedings held the child, also nicely and warmly clad, on her knee. From time to time the little one would whisper in her aunt's ear.

The father, his two sisters and an array of legal talent from Iowa represented their side of the case. During the proceedings Attorney Jewett charged Attorney-General Oscar L. Young of this State with acting as an attorney for the father and the State of Iowa.

FEARS WILSON'S RECOVERY IS "TOO RAPID"

Washington, Feb. 18.—President Wilson is progressing so rapidly that additional care is being taken that he does not overexert himself, Dr. Grayson stated this afternoon. Dr. Grayson said the Presidents recovery now "is too rapid" and there is danger that he will overtax his strength. For this reason Dr. Grayson has ordered that his work shall be limited.

WILSON SIGNED SECRET PACT TURNING OVER SHIPS TO ENGLAND

BRITISH "GRAB" OF FLEET INCLUDED MONEY BACK

man of the board, before the Senate Commerce Committee this afternoon.

In opposing the "bargain sale" of the thirty liners to the International Mercantile Marine for $28,000,000 Stevens revealed the decision of the board to auction off the vessels to private interests was not unanimous.

Stevens, whose testimony followed that of Chairman Payne, said he had voted alone against the policy with reference to the ships decided upon by Payne and John A. Donald and Thomas A. Scott, the other members of the board. Although outvoted 3 to 1, Stevens had opposed the course Donald, Payne and Scott had pursued.

The conflict was the result of his opinion that the ships should not be sold, but would prove a profitable investment if they were reconditioned and operated as an important part of the American merchant marine, Stevens said.

STEVENS VOTED ALONE.

"There is something bigger in this than mere money," Stevens said. "It is the confidence of the public in the American government. If you sell the ships at the price proposed you are going to undermine the faith of the American people in the honesty of their government.

"The ships, in my judgment, are worth two and three times as much as my colleagues on the board say they are worth," Stevens added. "They are worth two or three times as much as has been bid for them.

"It is true they cannot be sold now for what they are worth, but that is because there is no world market for them and there has not been for six years.

"These ships are worth from $65,000,000 to $75,000,000 in my opinion," Stevens continued. "I will show you the fallacy of the estimates of their value the Shipping Board has received.

BUYING AND SELLING SHIPS.

"The board's experts insist upon charging off five per cent. for depreciation per annum on these ships. That is, they would be worth nothing in twenty years. Now, nine of these German ships are more than twenty years old and some of the best bids we received were for them despite the fact that it will take millions to recondition them.

"When the government buys ships it figures depreciation at 2½ per cent. per annum and that is not a flat depreciation, but on the depreciated value from year to year. Why, then, when we sell ships should we figure depreciation at 5 per cent., a figure that is obviously absurd?"

Stevens said the ex-German ships could not be replaced for less than $100,213,000, even allowing for $31,467,000 in their depreciation.

Stevens charged the other members of the board with not making "proper efforts" to determine the value of the ships, and said he had voted against a resolution adopted by the other members of the board "that the sales division be instructed to negotiate further for the sales of the said ex-German passenger ships on the terms heretofore announced."

Payne embodied the resolution in a long prepared statement he presented to the committee.

"I differ fundamentally with my colleagues on the board on the principle involved in the proposed sale of the ships," Stevens said.

If You Are a Real American, Sign This

To the Congress of the United States:

I appeal to the members of Congress to use their influence with President Wilson to halt the proposed sale of thirty former German ships.

Further, I petition that there be a most thorough and full investigation of every important fact covering the proposed sale. This investigation should most thoroughly probe the report that the Shipping Board plans to sell these ships, including some of the largest and finest steamships afloat, for $28,000,000, which is declared to be but one-third of their real value.

I desire to ask why cannot the government itself operate these fine ships rather than sacrifice two-thirds of their value?

President Disposed of Fleet at Paris

Washington, Feb. 18.—The Boston American is authoritatively informed by a man who, in his official position, had occasion to handle the documents, that a definite agreement for the disposition of German ships seized by the United States was made between Premier Lloyd George and President Wilson.

This agreement was formally entered into and signed by them at Versailles and duly filed. Lloyd George and Woodrow Wilson were the only signatories.

It related not only to German shipping seized by the United States but to German shipping seized in German ports by the Allies.

The representative of the American has not personally seen this document, but the standing and position of the man who makes the assertion is sufficient to convince the American that his statement is correct.

If this is the agreement about which the United States Senate is seeking information, the American presents to the Senate the following digest of it.

The agreement stipulates that all German shipping seized in German ports by the allies shall be applied, ton for ton and class for class, to the maritime losses sustained by the allies during the war.

This means that an allied nation losing a passenger vessel is awarded one of the seized German passenger liners of like tonnage and class.

ENGLAND GREATEST GAINER.

Great Britain, having suffered the greatest maritime losses, is, of course, the greatest beneficiary under the agreement.

It is further stipulated in the agreement that all German vessels seized by the United States in American waters shall be applied class for class and ton for ton to the maritime losses sustained by the United States.

Any surplus tonnage above the losses sustained by the United States shall be turned over to the reparations commission of the allied council in the form of the value of the surplus tonnage.

Our losses in passenger vessels were slight compared to those of Great Britain. The class-for-class and ton-for-ton agreement would naturally leave a large amount of passenger liner tonnage to be applied to the losses of other nations, and particularly Great Britain, through the reparation commission.

Apparently the money obtained from the sale of these surplus ships would not go to the United States but to the Reparation Commission, with the result that the purchasers, in the interest of Great Britain, would obtain them at a cheap price, and Great Britain itself would subsequently receive its pro rata of the purchase price through the Reparation Commission.

Thank Hearst for Halting Sale of Ships

Resolutions thanking William Randolph Hearst for the halting of the sale of the German liners were passed at a Liberty Loan rally held last evening by the Roger Casement Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom at Historic Hall, No. 1651 Washington street.

Following addresses by Daniel Foley and James H. Brennan of Charlestown, more than forty persons volunteered to canvass their respective precincts in the interests of the Irish loan. The children of the members of the Roger Casement Branch were organized into a Paul Revere Society to distribute literature and in other ways aid the canvassers. The resolution follows:

"Be it resolved: That in halting the transfer by the disloyal Shipping Board of the matchless fleet of thirty German passenger ships from American to what would be practically British register, for a sum less than one-third their value, William Randolph Hearst has performed a most conspicuous act of patriotism which merits for all time the grateful thanks of his fellow citizens."

Flaherty Post Protests Sale of Ships

Lieutenant Lawrence J. Flaherty Post of the American Legion, representing 1,500 veterans, at its meeting in East Boston, protested in resolutions against "the unparalleled blow against American institutions by the action of the United States Shipping Board in sacrificing former German merchant ships allotted to the United States through the outcome of the recent world war."

Prominent New Hampshire Men Against Disposal

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18.—Two prominent New Hampshire men interviewed on the proposed sale of the German liners said as follows:

M. S. DONNELLY, Manchester—I think it a shame to sell them.

RHODE ISLAND PROTESTS.

CHRISTOPHER M. DUNN, Deputy Labor Commissioner—I hope the Hearst newspapers will stop the sale of ships, which would be a disgrace if allowed to go through as scheduled by the Shipping Board. It took great courage to combat this Christmas gift and the people know where the credit belongs. Here we have a crippled merchant marine and they want to sell on the instalment plan the ships which would put our merchant marine where it should be. The Hearst newspapers are doing a great public service.

CONNECTICUT PROTESTS.

EUGENE P. GOLDEN, Senator, 15th district, Conn.—Ridiculous to sell cream of the merchant fleet of the world for such a low figure.

W. W. MILLER, Representative, Hartford, Conn.—I am opposed to the sale of the ships for $28,000,000.

BRITAIN DENIES WILSON PACT

Declare President Never Agreed to Sale of German Ships to England

London, Feb. 18.—The British Foreign Office flatly denies that President Wilson has ever agreed to the purchase by Great Britain of the German ships held by the United States, which are now the subject of litigation at Washington.

An official of the Foreign Office, when shown American dispatches with regard to reports of a secret agreement between President Wilson and Britain concerning the disposition of the ships, pointed out that the fate of these vessels was decided by the "Big Five" at Paris last Spring, and that the agreement bearing the signatures of the powers was made public at the time.

News of the suspension of the ships' sale has created a profound stir in Liverpool shipping circles. The great British passenger-carrying lines anticipating keen American competition as a result of the transfer of the United States Shipping Board transports to the Atlantic trade, a big Anglo-American rate fight is generally predicted as inevitable.

British ship-owners decline to comment, as the matter threatens to enter the realm of international politics. It is pointed out that British bidding for the ships would be purely a matter of business, though it is frankly admitted that there is no question that any patriotic and public-spirited American has the right to take action with a view to safeguard his country's army transport service in case of an emergency.

London newspapers refrain from comment on the news regarding the suspended ship sale, merely printing brief dispatches from Washington and New York telling of developments.

British Firm's Flag Flies on Leviathan

New York, Feb. 18.—The flag of the International Mercantile Marine is already flying on the greatest giantess of the sea—the Leviathan.

Despite denials of the United States Shipping Board that there has been any understanding between the International Mercantile Marine and the board concerning the sale of any of the thirty German war prizes, photographers took pictures of the Leviathan as she lay at her pier in Hoboken, showing the company's emblem flying from her mainmast.

Most remarkable was the absence of any flag of the United States Shipping Board flying on any part of the greatest ship in the world which is still supposed to be under the board's control.

The Stars and Stripes hung at her stern, and the only other emblem in sight was the house flag of the International Mercantile Marine—a spread eagle in blue on a white background.

Legion Post Opposes Selling German Ships

James E. Welch Post No. 56, American Legion, has gone on record, unanimously, as opposing the sale of the seized German liners. In its resolution the efforts of the Boston American and its publisher, William Randolph Hearst, were endorsed.

The post unanimously passed another resolution favoring the passage of the resolution calling for a $50 monthly bonus for all service men and women. Copies of both resolutions were sent to all Massachusetts Congressmen.

Vermont Legislators Oppose Sale of Ships

Burlington, Vt., Feb. 18.—The proposed sale of the former German steamships by the United States Shipping Board has stirred Vermont legislators and officials. They condemn the proposition to sell the ships "for a song." The opinions of many follow:

CHARLES W. GATES, former Vermont Governor, Franklin—I do not believe the confiscated German ships should be sold for one-eighth their value.

M. W. PHILLIPS, Representative, Irasburg—I think the government should keep those confiscated German ships.

E. N. CONNAL, Representative, Newport Centre—I believe the German ships should be sold at auction to Americans retaining the right of use by the government in case of need.

C. E. HAMBLETT, Senator, Barton—I do not believe it is good business to sell any property for one-eighth its real value.

WILLIAM H. NORTON, Representative, Vergennes—I believe that many of these ships could be used.

F. W. FITZGERALD, Representative, Norwich—I should deem it very unwise for the United States government to sell the confiscated German ships for one-eighth their value.

CHARLES H. PARMELEE, Representative, Wilmington—The United States should not sell a confiscated German ship for one-eighth its real value.

AMASA SWEET, Representative, Lowell—It seems to me that the government should get the highest possible cash price.

DANA C. MARSH, Representative, Hancock—I am opposed to any such deal.

H. M. J. JONES, Former State Food Administrator, Montpelier—I think if the confiscated German ships are sold that the price should be what they are worth and under no circumstances at one-eighth their real values.

WILSON C. HINTON, Representative, Charleston—I don't believe the government should sell any of the German fleet for one-eighth its value.

D. M. DWINELL, Representative, Newport—I do not believe the government should sell the ships at one-eighth their real value.

C. W. SLEEPER, Representative, Barnard—I think the ships should not be sold. I think they are more valuable to the U. S.

MYRON C. MAXHAM, Representative Worcester—I see no reason why the government should sell the German ships at one-eighth their actual value.

JOHN A. FOSS, Representative Plainfield—Most assuredly not. The government should not sell the ships for one-eighth their value.

ALMON E. GOODNO, Representative Rochester—I am opposed to any such action on the part of the government.

CHARLES M. WHITE, Representative, Woodstock—I am decidedly opposed to the sale of any confiscated German vessels to any foreign company or nation at less than their actual cash value.

EDWARD H. PALMER, Monkton—Not knowing any good reason why the confiscated ships should be sold at such a low price, I believe they should be kept by the government to build up our merchant marine.

HARRY B. AMEY, Senator, of Brighton—Emphatically no, the United States should not sell the confiscated German ships for one-eighth their value.

CHARLES R. HOLDEN, Representative, North Troy—Such a proceeding would not seem business-like, therefore I believe the government should not sell the ships at such a price.

E. C. TAYLOR, Representative, Wallingford—I am opposed to the government selling the confiscated German ships for one-eighth their value. I believe they should be sold out but in view of the present shipping situation I am at a loss to know why the government should not exercise enterprise and ability enough to get their real value.

C. R. DURGIN, Representative, Morgan—I do not believe in the United States government selling ships at any price below par until our foreign relations are in different shape.

FRANK T. TAYLOR, Representative, Hardwick—There is no hurry to sell as they would not depreciate more. They might be made a nucleus for a merchant marine. Let Congress investigate and know what is best for the most people and then go ahead.

ASHLEY J. GOSS, Representative, West Danville—It is too great a sacrifice to sell merchant ships at such a price.

WILLIAM J. McCLARREN, Representative, Barnet—I do not think the confiscated ships should be sacrificed at one-eighth of their value. They should bring two-thirds of their actual value.

G. A. DAVIS, Representative, Rutland—Vermont's Representatives are on the job and I am willing to leave it to them.

FLEET VALUED BY BRITISHER

York to Tell Senate of Aiding Expert Authorized by Shipping Board

By JUSTIN McGRATH,

Editorial Correspondent Universal Service.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Was the Shipping Board's appraisal of the German ships on which Chairman John Barton Payne based his conclusion that the International Mercantile Marine's bid of $28,000,000 represented the approximate value of the fleet, made by an Englishman?

John Devereaux York of Chicago, who is in Washington to testify today before the Senate Commerce Committee, served on one board that made an appraisal of the ships. So far as he knows, it was the only board that did appraise the ships.

York says that the chairman of the board on which he served was Bert Locke, an Englishman, and that Locke claimed to have his authority from the Shipping Board. York is prepared to tell the Senate committee just how he came to be employed by Locke and some remarkable experiences he had while working under Locke's directions.

APPROACHED BY ENGLISHMAN.

"Mr. Locke," said Mr. Yorke, "was connected with the Clyde Line. He came to my home in Chicago one evening after the signing of the armistice and asked me if I would be open to an engagement to help him make an inspection of the German ships with a view to appraising their value. He said he acted for the United States Shipping Board and showed what purported to be authority from the board to make the inspection.

"I had of course no reason to doubt that his credentials were regular because they secured us permission to examine all of the German ships thoroughly. He told me he had learned that I had done some work at the Peebles yard on the Clyde in 1890 and that was why he had hunted me up. He made me a good offer for the work he asked me to do. I received my pay from him, not from the shipping board.

AROUSED BY DEVELOPMENTS.

"I did not attach any importance at the time to the fact that the shipping board had selected an Englishman to make the appraisal of the ships or to the fact that Mr. Locke said he had hunted me up to assist him in his work because I once had a connection with a British shipping yard. Now, because of developments in connection with the proposed sale, I am anxious to know more about the circumstances of Mr. Locke's employment."

"NOT A CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT," McADOO TELLS GEORGIANS

WOULD LET DELEGATES DECIDE

Former Secretary Wants Selection of Candidate Left to Party Convention

New York, Feb. 18.—William G. McAdoo today announced in a letter made public here that he is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. He asked that his name be withdrawn from the Gergia primary.

The former Secretary of the Treasury declared, however, that he regarded it as the "imperative duty of any man to accept nomination if it should come to him unsolicited."

Mr. McAdoo's telegram was addressed to Miller S. Bell, Mayor of Milledgeville, Ga., and was in answer to a telegram notifying him that his name had been placed in the Georgia primary by the citizens of Milledgeville. Mr. McAdoo's telegram follows:

"Your telegram informing me that the citizens of Milledgeville have entered my name in the Democratic primary of the State of Georgia for President of the United States duly received. I am deeply moved by this manifestation of the confidence of my friends who live in the city of my boyhood and in the State of my nativity.

"It is indeed an honor to be considered by them worthy of such high station. I feel, however, that I should candidly state my position. I am not seeking the nomination and am reluctant to do anything that would create the appearance of a candidacy. I cannot help feeling that this is peculiarly a time when we should fight for principles and not for individuals.

WOULDN'T BIND DELEGATES.

"Therefore, I should like to see the next Democratic national convention composed of untrammelled men and women bound to no particular candidate and allowed to express their preferences freely through the abolition of the unit rule.

"Personally I should be delighted if the next national convention might actually be a Democratic conference, where the utmost freedom of action should prevail and where the motive of high service alone should control.

"If in such convention a platform is adopted and a candidate is selected representing the great constructive, progressive and spiritual forces of the day, the favorable opinion of the country would be enlisted at the very outset. The issue would then be sharply drawn between us and the forces of standpatism and reaction which are already over-reaching themselves and claiming with presumptous confidence the victory in next November.

WANTS NAME WITHDRAWN.

"Holding these views you can readily understand why I prefer not to be entered in the Georgia primary and why I must beg my good friends to withdraw my name. I cannot consistently enter the primary in any State when it is my earnest conviction that the delegates from every State should go to the convention without instructions save to use their power and opportunity for the best service of their country.

"No greater honor than a nomination for the Presidency can come to any man, short of election to the Presidency itself. In a democracy like ours the obligations of good citizenship are supreme, and I should therefore regard it as the imperative duty of any man to accept a nomiyation if it should come to him unsolicited. I say this at the risk of being charged with harboring a candidacy, notwithstanding the explicit statement in this letter, but I am sure that, on the whole, I shall not be misunderstood."

BILL FORCES LANDLORDS TO FURNISH HEAT

Landlords would be required to maintain a temperature of 68 degrees from 6 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night during the period of the year between October 15 and April 15, under the terms of a bill which was favored before the judiciary committee by Health Commissioner Woodward of Boston, Mayor Adams of Melrose, representing the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, and Representative Silbert of Boston.

TWO ARE SAVED IN WHITMAN FIRE

Whitman, Feb. 18.—Edward A. Parker and Mrs. Jennie Sharpe, who occupy apartments on the second floor of the postoffice block, Whitman Centre, were rescued by firemen when fire destroyed the block early today. The two upper floors of the structure were totally destroyed, causing a loss of $20,000. Only an hour before fire in a defective flue had been apparently extinguished.

SUPERIOR OF ST. MARY'S INFANT ASYLUM DEAD

Sister Veronica, for forty-five years a member of the order of the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul and for many years Superior of St. Mary's Infant Asylum and of St. Margaret's Hospital, Dorchester, is dead at the latter institute. She was ill only five days. Pneumonia was the cause.

Woman Asks $57,000 on Marriage Pact

Goshen, N. Y., Feb. 18.—An income claim on a marriage settlement agreement alleged to have been made in England, has just been received by Surrogate Elwood C. Smith against the estate of Augustus D. Juillard, late of New York and Tuxedo Park, whose will, disposing of property valued at more than $5,000,000, was admitted to probate here September 25, 1919.

The claim is made by Laura Cornelia Detible Machado, wife of Jose Detible Machado, consul-general of Guatemala. Her present address is No. 3200 Keokuk street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

The papers allege that the claimant was formerly Miss Laura C. Juillard, a niece of the late Augustus D. Juillard. She claims $57,000 with interest from September 14, 1914, and a yearly income of $20,000 from January 1, 1920, alleging that Mr. and Mrs. Juillard and the claimant and her husband entered into a marriage settlement agreement in London and that the claims are based upon its terms.

SOVIET PRAISED BY HILLQUIT

Socialist Leader at Assemblymen's Trial Says His Party Is Marxian Democratic

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18.—A sweeping denial that the Socialists of America are Bolshevists or that they foster the adoption of a Soviet government for the United States, was made today by Morris Hillquit, the party leader in America, testifying as an expert in the proceedings against the five suspended Socialist assemblymen.

"We Socialists in America are not Bolsheviks," declared Hillquit. "We are in reality Social Democrats of the Marxian type.

"To say that a Soviet government for the United States is our aim or to say that a Soviet government is appropriate for the United States is infantile. The farmers of the United States are not comparable to the peasants of Russia, nor is industrial America to be compared with the industry of Russia.

"Summed up, we sympathize with Soviet Russia for the following reasons:

"We recognize Russia as being governed by the working classes, the underdogs, if you please.

"The opposition to Soviet Russia comes from the pro-Czar quarters and from reactionaries. As between the Soviets and the pro-Czars we prefer the Soviets.

"We are opposed to the blockade, the financing of counter revolutions in Russia, the practical carrying on of a war against a country with which we are not at war

NO TIME FOR GAYETY SAYS BELGIAN PREMIER

Brussels, Feb. 18.—"We must make the people understand that this is not a moment for the pursuit of plesure and amusemenat and that Europe will not be restored by the whirl of gayety but by the ceaseless movement of productive machinery," said Premier Delacroix in a message to the people today. The workingman is determined to labor patriotically until Belgium is restored. I believe in putting Germany in a position to work so that the Germans may make good more quickly the damage they have done."

FEWER BUSINESS FAILURES REPORTED

Washington, Feb. 18.—Business failures were 19 per cent. lower in the first three weeks of January than in the corresponding period last year, treasury figures today showed. Statistics for December revealed 581 business reverses with liabilities of $8,300,000, which is better than the record for this month in any previous year since 1894. Compared with 683 insolvencies for $12,000,000 in December, 1918, decreases of 14 per cent. in number and 32 per cent. in liabilities are shown.

BERLIN PAPER ASSERTS ALLIES ACQUIT HOLLWEG

Berlin, Feb. 18.—Now that the allies have relented on the question of trying German war offenders in allied countries, the Mittag Am Zeitung declared today that "further concessions are expected." It referred to the "complete retreat" of the allies, and said the list presented by the allies is being sifted and such names as that of former Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg are being eliminated.

BURNED OUT, WANTS $400 TAXES REFUNDED

Newport, R. I., Feb. 18.—A petition has been received by the town council of Middletown from Katherine J. Mott, wife of Joran L. Mott, representing that the value of her estate, "Paradise Rocks," was largely diminished by fire last June and asking that $400 of the tax assessed June 2, 1919, be refunded. The buildings are valued at $50,000.

LENTEN SEASON IS OPENED

Catholic and Protestant Churches Have Special Exercises

Today, Ash Wednesday, ushered in the Lenten season of forty weekdays and six Sundays, with appropriate services in all the Catholic and many of the Protestant churches of the city.

Seven services were held at St. Paul's Cathedral, where Dean Rousmaniere preached at 10.30 a. m. and at 8 p. m., and holy communion was administered at the former hour.

At King's Chapel the season was inaugurated by a service at 11:30 a. m. with a sermon by Rev. Sydney B. Snow, associate pastor, and singing by the quartet choir.

Cardinal O'Connell officiated at the blessing of the ashes at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross and presided at solemn high mass at 9 a. m.

The blessing of the ashes at the Mission Church, old St. Mary's, North End, and the Church of the Immaculate Conception took place before the early mass at 5:30.

Next Sunday the Passionist Fathers of the Blessed Gabriel Monastery, Brighton, will open a two weeks' mission at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, the first week for women and the second for men.

Other special Lenten services include a series of Wednesday evening lectures at Trinity Church by Rev. Alexander Mann on the history of the Episcopal Church, and special services at the Union Congregational Church on Sunday mornings and evenings and on Fridays.

Newton Children Give Church Mardi-Gras

Nearly 300 children, members of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Newton Highlands, participated in the annual church party held in the parish house. The entertainment, which took the form of a Mardi-Gras, was presented under the direction of A. A. Cole, superintendent of the church Sunday school.

The royal party, composed of children under ten years of age, was headed by William Mitchell as king and Lois Woodworth as queen. Gibson and Robert McCabe acted as heralds. The royal party was also attended by four ladies-in-waiting and four pages.

The program consisted of costume dancing and various forms of entertainment. The main attraction for the children was a "Kazoo March." The Senior Girl's Club presented "Charades," acted out in costume. A black face song and dance was featured by the Boy's Club. The younger members of the parish presented various forms of folk dancing.

Court Would Decide President's Fitness

Washington, Feb. 18.—Representative Fess of Ohio announced today that he is preparing an amendment to the constitution, which he will introduce in the House, providing that the Supreme Court of the United States may decide, upon appeal from Congress, as to the incapacity of the President to perform his duties.

The amendment further provides that when the Supreme Court shall decide the President is unable to function, the duties of the President shall devolve upon the Vice-President until such time as the President again is able to assume the duties of his office.

MILLIKEN MADE NEW CONTROLLER OF MALDEN

By a vote of the Common Council and Board of Aldermen of Malden, Walter Milliken, assistant treasurer of the city, was made city controller to take the place of C. E. Carney, who has resigned. The Council has passed an order for a $500 increase, which will bring the salary of the city controller up to $2,500, providing it is passed by the Board of Aldermen.

JAILED FOR ATTEMPT TO BRIBE TAX COLLECTOR

Chicago, Feb. 18.—After spending a night in jail on a charge of handing an alleged $15,000 bribe to a Federal income tax collector, Albert I. Lauer, secretary and treasurer of Briggs & Turivas, an iron salvaging corporation, renewed his efforts to obtain his freedom today, aided by former United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

CLINTON FARMER HANGS HIMSELF

Clinton, Feb. 18.—Despondency due to ill health is believed to have caused S. Edward Ferry, aged seventy, a retired farmer, to commit suicide by hanging himself in his barn. The body was discovered by his wife.

Held on Drug Charge

Frank McNulty, twenty-one, of Dedham street, South End, was in the Municipal Court today, charged with having drugs in his possession. He was held in $500 for a continued hearing next Wednesday.

PELICAN'S FISH CARGO CONDEMNED AND SOLD

Boston health department officials today condemned as unfit for food the entire fish cargo of the trawler Pelican, which sank at T wharf about a week ago after her bow had been pierced by ice floes and has since been raised. The entire fare amounted to about 100,000 pounds, valued at $4,500. It was sold to N. Ward & Co. to be used as fertilizer.

DIES FROM INJURIES RECEIVED IN HOLDUP

Francis J. Moriarity, 26, is dead at his home, No 553 East Fifth street, South Boston, as the result of injuries received six months ago while a conductor on the Elevated, when attacked and robbed by a gang of young men. The funeral services will be held Thursday morning in the Gate of Heaven Church.

GRESHAM OFF TO AID OF CRIPPLED SCHOONER

The Coast Guard cutter Gresham left the harbor this morning on a search for the Gloucester fishing schooner Fannie E. Prescott, reported by the trawler Wave to be drifting helplessly somewhere off the coast.

Put Under Observation

William J. Simmons, twenty-one years old, of Hansborough street, was found acting queerly at Harrison avenue and Dover street today. He was taken to City Hospital for observation.

Child Suffocated in Overheated Room

Mrs. Pearl Taylor of No. 4 Burchstead street, Lynn, returned from work in a local factory at noon today, and found her four-year-old daughter dead on a bed in the kitchen of their home.

According to Dr. S. R. Davis, the child died of suffocation, due to exhaustion of oxygen in the room by a hot fire in the cooking range.

Mrs. Taylor, who was prostrated and placed in a physician's care, told the police that when she left home at 7 o'clock today, the little girl was asleep. There was no one else in the apartment.

MILTON CANDIDATES LAUNCH THEIR FIGHT

A caucus opened the political fight in Milton preliminary to the election in March. A contest for the Board of Selectmen is being waged by Samuel Gordon, Leroy Morgan and Raymond C. Kelly. A school board fight has begun, with Miss Harriet Whittier and George Y. Badger seeking the seats of Charles M. Rogerson and Mrs. Eva T. Churchill.

DEPORTATION PLANS CALLED "INDEFINITE"

Washington, Feb. 18.—Plans for the deportation of alleged "Reds," captured in raids during the last three months, are indefinite, Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti stated today. He said that the transportation problem is a serious one and that it is probable there will not be another "Soviet Ark" sailing for some time.

PROTESTANTISM TOO NEGATIVE, SAYS PARSON

Rev. Percy G. Kammerer in his noon address today at St. Paul's Cathedral said young people are getting away from religion because Protestantism and Puritanism are too negative. "We are continually saying 'Thou shalt not,'" he declared. "In this spirit we are failing to catch the young. We want a catholicism that is not exclusive."

Foster Estate $15,000

Alfred F. Kendall of Somerville has been appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. F[illegible]ncelia L. Foster of Somerville, who [illegible]led November 14 1919. The esta[illegible] valued at $15,000.

AFFINITY ASKS WIFE FOR MATE

Divorcee Wrote She Had Won Husband's Love, Says Mrs. Heiss, Seeking Divorce

New York, Feb. 18.—A letter from "the other woman," calling herself "part of the eternal triangle," was submitted to Supreme Court Justice Cavaghan in Brooklyn by Mrs. Margaret M. Heiss, in support of her application for alimony and counsel fees, pending trial of her suit for separation from John Heiss, chiropractor. The other woman, Mrs. Heiss says, is Mrs. Augusta Nelson, a wealthy divorcee, living at No. 55 West One Hundred and Seventy-third street, where Heiss is also said to make his headquarters.

In the letter, which is signed "Augusta," Mrs. Nelson tells her of her unfortunate marital experience with an opera singer, leading up to her divorce and her meeting with Heiss, after which she "learned to know what real love is." The writer pleads with Mrs. Heiss to give up her husband because he does not love her, and adds:

"We often speak of you and wish you could find some good, true man. Could you live happily with John, knowing that you were an unloved wife and that his every thought was with another woman? I would really like to meet you so that we can thoroughly understand this case. We can go to some quiet place and have lunch. When you have made your decision, will you telephone John and he will communicate with me?"

Incidentally, the writer tells of her own efforts to win back the love of a fickle husband and says: "The greatest mistake a woman can make is to try to win a husband back when he has ceased to love her."

BOSTON MEN INJURED IN SQUANTUM CAVE-IN

Peter Mullen of No. 23 Josephine street, Dorchester, and John J. Dunphy of No. 585 Dudley street, Dorchester, were seriously injured when the contents of a coal pocket on which they were at work in the Victory plant at Squantum caved in.

Alimony of Divorcees Exempt from Tax

New York, Feb. 18. — Waiters, porters, barbers, bellboys and others, who are lucky enough to get tips, must keep tabs on them and give Uncle Sam a "divvy." The collector of internal revenue today called attention to the fact that these gratuities must be included in income tax returns, because they are regarded as part of salary or wages.

Ladies who collect allmony, however, escape taxation on that portion of their incomes. Marriage allowances, too, are free of tax, but if such funds are invested, the income obtained must be included in the tax returns.

CALL EXPERTS IN BURKE TRIAL

Defence Prepares to Meet Charge That Notes From Bartley Were Forged

Skowhegan, Me., Feb. 18.—James D. Hallen, a New York lawyer, who, when on trial for forgery several years ago qualified as a handwriting expert and gained his acquittal, arrived here today to augment the staff of defence experts who will testify at the trial of John A. Burke, charged with the murder of Nelson W. Bartley.

The defence experts are expected to testify that notes for more than $2,000 which Burke claims he received from Bartley before he was murdered are genuine. The government claims they are forgeries.

William Hingston, the Boston handwriting expert, is one of the government witnesses.

Dr. F. N. Whittier, bacteriologist, who took the stand Monday afternoon, is still engaged in making microscopic examinations of the trousers worn by Burke on the night he declared he was shot by Bartley. He is endeavoring to show that Burke shot himself.

Today's session developed little evidence of importance.

Girl, 17, Four Years in Harem, Is Bride

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 18.—After escaping from a Turkish harem, where she had been confined more than four years, Elizabeth Koumrian, seventeen-year-old Armenian girl, was married Monday to Robert Kellejian, a young Armenian, of No. 724 South Sixtieth street. This culminated happily a romance born out of the tragedy surrounding the Armenian massacres in 1915.

Elizabeth, the bride, when only 12½ years old, was captured by a Turk in the course of the massacres in the neighborhood of the Armenian town of Yozgat, the girl's home, in 1915. The Turk, tying the girl to the saddle of his horse, took her to a Turkish village, where he made her an inmate of his harem.

There she remained for more than four years. During all this time, said the minister who married the couple, the heroic girl refused to renounce the Christian religion and to embrace Mohammedanism, despite the tortures which were constantly inflicted upon her to compel her to do so.

Finally, in the Turk's absence, she managed to escape with the aid of one of the Turk's wives, who had manifested intense jealousy of the Armenian girl from the beginning. Even the Turk's father had objected against the incarceration of a girl so foung in the harem, and he, too, helped Elizabeth in a measure to escape.

BODY IN BARREL IS SET AFIRE

Attempt to Burn Shed Reveals Murder Mystery at Rochester, N. Y.

By International News Service.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 18.—A murder mystery was revealed here today when an attempt was made to burn a wagon shed in the Italian quarter.

Firemen discovered the body of Filippe Farara, twenty-eight, doubled up in a barrel which was rapidly being consumed by the flames.

Examination of the body showed that the man had been dead but a short time. He had been slashed with a sharp instrument, his throat being cut and his face gashed. There were stab wounds on his body.

The police discovered evidence that the man had been murdered in the attic of the house where he lived, and after he had been killed his body was carried in the barrel, which was placed on a sleigh and removed to the wagon shed, several blocks away, where it was saturated with oil and set afire.

FUNERAL TOMORROW OF MRS. MARGARET DEVINEY

Mrs. Margaret DeViney, seventy-two, mother of Matthew J. DeViney, formerly advertising manager of the American, will be buried at Franklin, N. H., following services at St. Aiden's Church, Brookline, at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The body now lies at the family home, No. 117 Thorndike street, Brookline. Three sons and a daughter survive her. They are Edward, David and Matthew DeViney and Mrs. Mary Savage. The son David is in St. Louis. The others reside in Brookline. Mrs. DeViney was a native of Ireland.

JOHN McMORROW OF DORCHESTER BURIED

Funeral services for John McMorrow, No. 322 Adams street, Dorchester, were held today at St. Ambrose's Church, Rev. John H. Harrigan being celebrant of the mass. Mr. McMorrow was a building contractor.

Asks Peters to Inspect

James V. Donnaruma, president of the North End Improvement Association, has written to Mayor Peters asking him to visit Hull street and view the "filthy condition of the streets and yards."

BREAK IN COAL FAMINE

Arrival of 9000 Tons and Mild Weather Relieves Serious Fuel Situation

Rising temperatures, together with the arrival of 9,000 tons of coal by water, afforded some relief in the local fuel situation today.

Distribution of coal was reported to be easier, although many manufacturers throughout New England were said to be still suffering from a shortage.

The Lake Bledsoe from Norfolk brought 2,850 tons for the New England Fuel & Transportation Company. The Lake Harney, from the same port, carried 3,200 tons for the Boston & Maine. Fifteen hundred tons each arrived on the barges Bethayres and Monitor for the Metropolitan Coal Company, and one barge came in which was carrying fuel for Gloucester.

WORCESTER TROLLEYS SEEK 10-CENT FARE

Worcester, Feb. 18.—As a result of the severe Winter the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway Company will ask the Public Service Commission for the right to charge a straight 10-cent fare here. The company claims that the storm cost them $100,000 and that revenue was cut by 70 per cent.

HIGGINS BURIED AT CALVARY

Elevated Officials and Labor Men Attend Funeral of Car Union Head

Every department of the Boston Elevated Company, from trustee to car cleaner, was represented today at the funeral of Matthew J. Higgins, president of the local Carmen's Union, who died last Sunday following the death of his wife by less than two weeks.

More than a thousand members of the union preceded the funeral cortege from the Higgins home on Weld Hill street to St. Andrew's Church, Jamaica Plain, where Rev. William J. Casey celebrated the requiem mass. At the door of the church the long lines of blue-clad men separated, and all uncovered as the casket was carried from the church.

From the church to New Calvary Cemetery four cars of the Elevated preceded the cortege, all of them bound in mourning, and the flag at the Forest Hills car barns swung at half-staff.

The honorary pallbearers were: James H. Jackson, chairman of the Elevated trustees; John S. Stevens of the trustees; William Nealey, president of the State branch, A. F. of L.; Richard Garrity, president of Boston C. L. U.; James Smith, superintendent of transportation of the Elevated, and John C. Barrett, grand knight of Mt. Pleasant Council, K. of C.

The active pallbearers were: Thomas F. Shine, international vice-president of the Carmen's Union; Christopher J. Dwyer, acting president of the local union; William Walsh, business agent; John W. Hurley, secretary; John J. Lyons, recording secretary; Charles H. Clark and John J. Cronin of the executive board of the union.

DELAY IN WELLESLEY HOSPITAL DEATH CASE

Hearing on a charge of manslaughter against Mrs. Margaret Coumans, a Wellesley nurse, again was continued today in the District Court at Dedham on account of the inability of District Attorney Katzman to be present. FOREIGN TRADE OF U. S. IS CUT

Nations at War Showing Ability to Get Into Export Business

Washington, Feb. 18.—American foreign trade falling off, in pursuance with the European policy to reduce imports to the limit of economic necessity, shows a decided slump in the export returns now being compiled by government experts.

Tentative figures for January reveal that the United States normal trade balances monthly will be sharply reduced. Treasury officials noted material increases in imports from abroad in the last semi-monthly period.

Reports to both the treasury and commerce departments indicate a moderate recovery by Europe in its ability to export goods. Great Britain is far in the lead, reports indicating that she is fast recuperating the industrial power she enjoyed before the war. A material increase is noted in her ability to ship a surplus of goods to all other countries, chiefly the United States.

France and Italy likewise show improvement in export relations, but this recovery thus far seems only partial.

In view of this situation, it was declared, American bankers generally are not making any considerable commitments in foreign exchange.

The Federal Reserve Board today stated that export houses fear they must reduce their trade or else finance their customers out of their own resources.

LAWRENCE MAN ADMITS THEFT IN AID OF FAMILY

Lawrence, Feb. 18.—Because he needed the money to help his family which was in destitute circumstances, George Dollar admitted in the District Court here that he used $135 of the money he should have turned in to a life insurance company for his own needs. Dollar had been employed as an agent for the company during the past month and had failed to turn in money collected, it was alleged. He stated that doctors' bills demanded the use of money. The court continued the case for sentence.

ALLIES ANSWER WILSON'S NOTE

in the closing of the peace terms, for the President has indicated that he does not feel that this nation can be bound to agreements which it had no part in making.

The President's memorandum has caused a sensation in European circles, according to unofficial advices, and officials of the State Department have been advised that it is regarded as one of the most serious crises that has confronted the allied leaders during their peace negotiations.

It is expected, however, that the council of premiers eventually will agree to the viewpoint of President Wilson and that he will be given an opportunity to ratify or reject for the United States those steps which have been taken without the consultation of this government.

WALLACE SENDS REPORT.

Ambassador Wallace is understood to have reported the proposed Adriatic settlement to this government and the State Department notified the council of premiers that the United States maintained its position on the Fiume question irrespective of the proposed new agreement. This notification evidently was not taken by the council of premiers as seriously as it should have been.

The report that the council of premiers at first drafted a strong reply to President Wilson and then redrafted their answer in terms less harsh is interpreted here as indicating that it is realized that the situation may bring about a serious crisis.

While the President's action has been officially disclaimed as a threat, the fact remains that he set forth specifically to the Allies the full consequences of any action taken on the Fiume matter without his knowledge or consent.

Reply to Wilson Will Explain Premiers' Stand

By International News Service.

London, Feb. 18.—The Allied premiers' reply to President Wilson's Adriatic protest, sent to Washington through the American embassy, was described today as a voluminous explanatory document. The reply covered seven pages and was said to have gone into a full and detailed explanation of the premiers' position.

The council of premiers is reported to maintain the opinion that a satisfactory settlement of the Jugo-Slav-Italian dispute over Fiume can still be reached. Premier Nitti of Italy was quoted by the Pall Mall Gazette as saying:

"We desire the best possible relations with America, but upon the questions of today I cannot speak. The decisions reached by the Allies on January 20 place a definite imprint upon the Adriatic question."

TANK CAR OF WINE TAPPED ON WAY HERE

Springfield, Feb. 18.—A tank car of wine, thought to be en route from California to Boston, was broken into by railroad employes in the West Springfield freight yards of the Boston & Albany road. Several gallons of the contents of the tank were stolen.

The theft was committed while the car was tied up for repairs in the yards. It is now en route to Boston. In the absence of way bills the officials were not certain of its destination or purpose.

THREE PERISH IN HOTEL FIRE

to the Rhode Island Hospital in a serious condition.

ORIGIN A MYSTERY.

The police began an investigation of the fire, which originated in mysterious fashion in room 83, occupied by Louis Perry, known in boxing circles as "Young Perry" of Bristol.

Perry was in the lobby when the blaze started on the fourth floor and swept through to the roof of the five-story building.

Coroner A. A. Munro has began an investigation. Questioning of Henry Smith, night watchman, brought out the fact that after 1 o'clock no more electricity is generated and gas is used for illuminating purposes.

William H. Matthewson, son of the tax collector of Johnston, with two other young men, went to the hotel after the theatre and occupied room 25. They escaped with scanty clothing. O. H. Laue, a lawyer of Rockland, Me., registered at the hotel in a room only two doors from the spot where the fire started. He left about midnight to visit a friend.

The hotel was conducted by J. V. Jordan.

The two top floors of the hotel were occupied exclusively by men with the exception of one room in which were a Mr. and Mrs. Adams of Boston. This couple were seen escaping down the stairs, with Mr. Adams carrying his wife's clothing.

According to Head Clerk A. G. Hyman, all the guests, with the exception of the four named, got away safely with their effects, the majority leaving town on early trains.

DIDN'T CLAIM PROPERTY.

The police stated that they had been unable to account for thirty, who are believed to have left without claiming their securities from the hotel safe.

Among these valuables was a watch inscribed: "Maryland Team Trophy, O. W. Wiley." Mr. Wiley was seen in the lobby after the fire started, according to the clerks.

The fire was said to have been discovered by a bellboy, who notified the night clerk. The hotel alarm was sounded, arousing the guests, who fled clad only in night clothing. When the firemen arrived the two upper floors were a mass of flames, into which it was impossible to penetrate.

By strenuous efforts the fire fighters managed to confine the blaze to these floors, but the water damage below was heavy. Many persons attempted to leap from windows in their excitement, but were prevented by firemen and employes.

The hotel registers were taken to police headquarters, where clerks and bellmen aided the police in checking the guests.

GRIP CLAIMS CHILD DAY AFTER MOTHER DIES

Lawrence, Feb. 18.—Marcella Akocunos, aged five, was the second in the Akocunos family to die inside of twenty-four hours, the mother of the little one having died the day before. Death in each instance was due to pneumonia. The funeral of the mother and child took place from the family home at No. 19 Highland street following services at St. Francis' Church.

fore midnight. His room at the hotel was very warm, and he decided a walk would help him to sleep. He walked up Broad street to Walnut. Turning east on Walnut street, he stopped to look in shop windows.

Encountering Policeman Savage near Thirteenth street, he was told to move on. Mr. Jeffries walked back to Broad street again and east on the south side of Walnut. While he was looking in a window east of Twelfth street, he says, Savage arrested him.

Several persons witnessed Mr. Jefferies' arrest. He says Savage refused to allow him to obtain their names, and he has instructed Mr. Roach to advertise in the hope that the men and women who saw the arrest may testify as to the circumstances.

According to Mr. Roach, Mr. Jefferies says at least five women and as many men standing on the corner were insulted by Patrolman Savage when they attempted to give their names to him. Mr. Jefferies asserted Savage told the people to get off the way and not to interfere with the law while he was ringing for the patrol wagon, emphasizing his remarks with profanity.

MORE "RED" HEARINGS BEING HELD TODAY

Evidence against the alleged radicals rounded up January 2 and sent to Deer Island was presented by the government today, when cases were reopened at the immigration station, following preliminary hearings which recently concluded. Some of the prisoners will be released because evidence is not strong.

Findings in connection with the cases are to be submitted to the department of labor at Washington.

ARREST NEPHEW OF MRS. CARTER HARRISON

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 18.—Harry Bryan Owsley, formerly an attache of the American diplomatice corps at Constantinople, and the nephew of Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, wife of a former mayor of Chicago, was arrested here charged with jumping a $1,500 hotel bill in Omaha, Neb. He was a stockbroker there. Owsley's marriage in 1918 to Mrs. Josephine H. Sampson, British authoress, who writes under the pen name of "Hildric Davenport," was a social event in Stamford, Conn.

DISPUTE MAY BE SYMPHONY'S END

Majority of Players Demand Raise in Pay; Some Have Joined Union

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, the most famous organization of its kind in the world, is threatened with disruption because of dissatisfaction on the part of a majority of the players, it was learned today.

Wage increase demands, the revival of the feud with the Musical Union, and offers said to have been received to play in other orchestras were named as disputed points.

It is understood that eighty-one members of the orchestra asked for a raise of $1,000 a year, or a little less than $20 a week, claiming that their average wage is about $35.

Judge Frederick P. Cabot, president and the trustees of the Symphony refuse to treat with the men as a body, and the advance has not been granted.

Thirty musicians have further signed applications to the Musical Union, it was stated, and paid fees of $25 for entrance, which was a violation of the policy of the late Major Henry L. Higginson. It is said that the trustees hold the same opinion, that no man can be a member of the Symphony and the Musical Union at the same time.

In a recent address Judge Cabot is reported as having told members of the orchestra that the existing guaranteeing fund for the Symphony of $2,000,000 could not be drawn upon to pay more wages. Furthermore, he is reported as saying that this was the only source from which wage increases could come without simply incurring additional deficits.

The suggestion that the price of tickets be increased was met by the statement that the greater number of seats are sold at a certain scale at the beginning of the season.

WORCESTER FREIGHT TIED UP FOR WEEKS

Worcester, Feb. 18.—It will be weeks before freight movements to and from Worcester will be normal, it was stated today by officials at the local freight yards. The freight houses are closed and no freight is being received. The entire force of freight handlers, yard employes and clerks are at work trying to free icebound cars which clog the yards.

CHARGE BIGAMY TO BAUMGARTEN

Hub Man Held, Wife Bailed at Extradition Trial for Auto Theft

Montreal, Que., Feb. 18.—Turned from his weeping bride, David L. Baumgarten, Jr., of Boston, was held at the conclusion of the preliminaries of his extradition case, while his wife, who is also charged with the theft of a $6,0000 automobile from John E. David of Watertown, Mass., was freed on $5,000 bail, provided by a sympathetic Montrealer.

David produced documentary evidence to establish that he had bought the car from the Baumgartens and paid for it by installments, which were completed a year ago. It had never been delivered, and he believes they had driven it out of Boston for Montreal.

Edgar L. Ryerson, a Boston lawyer, represented David. The defense contested the extradition application and contended that the car was an issue in a Cincinnati case. To meet their contention a delay was granted until Friday, by which time a Cincinnati lawyer will be here.

Advices reaching the police from Boston are to the effect that Baumgarten is wanted in Cincinnati on a bigamy charge and that both the accused are involved in fraud on hospitals through a fake advertising scheme operated in many American cities.

NEW PLANE RISES VERTICALLY

Peter Cooper Hewitt Invents "Sky Jitney" to Sell at Moderate Cost

Paris, Feb. 18.—Peter Cooper Hewitt, the New York electrical expert and inventor, announces that he has perfected a gyroscope airplane capable of rising vertically from the ground and making a landing within a space of a hundred feet by means of two concentric propellers rotating in opposite directions, thus solving a problem on which aviation experts have been working for several years.

The cost of this wingless plane, or "air jitney," the inventor says, will be so low as to make it a formidable competitor of cheap automobiles when it is put on the market in the near future.

It is expected to go a long way in solving the tragic problem in large cities, as one may be owned by every man who can find space to park it, which will be a simple matter, because of its small dimensions—it will be less than four feet in diameter.

The machine will be almost invaluable for use on board battleships, in the coast defence service and also in the transportation of food.

Another invention announced by Mr. Hewitt is a sensitive vacuum tube with which the presence of submarines may be detected from a considerable distance.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

ASPIRIN—for many years recommended by physicians for Colds, Headache, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Pain—is an extremely delicate, combination of acetic anhydryde and salicylic acid. When absolutely pure, it has no effect on the stomach but accomplishes its beneficial effect in the intestines. When exposed to the air, however (as when packed in ordinary glass, tin or paper cartons) it quickly absorbs moisture and impurities—causing its component parts to start decomposition even before being taken into the stomach. The result is that free salicyclic acid is released and frequently lodges in the stomach, thus reducing the efficiency of this valuable medicine. This is but ONE scientific reason why, to secure full medicinal value always, you should insist that the Aspirin you buy has airtight protection.

JIMMY WILDE QUITS OUT OF BOSTON BOUT WITH YOUNG DYSON

AFRAID TO FIGHT FOR DECISION

British Champion Is Given Tip That Dyson Is Kayo Puncher

By JACK CONWAY.

Jimmy Wilde, self-confessed British flyweight champion, has quit cold out of his twelve-round decision bout with Bobby Dyson of New Bedford, which was scheduled to be decided in this city next month under the direction of the Armory A. A.

The man who boasts he can beat any boxer in the world who will make 116 pounds for a match was apparently afraid Dyson would knock him out or at least get the decision.

Wilde at first consented to come to Boston and it was virtually agreed that Dyson should be his opponent. The weight for the tussle was to be 116 pounds, which is a notch at which the British champion has claimed he would meet all challengers.

Jack Leonard, Dyson's manager, agreed to have his protege make the required weight. Then somebody wrecked the New England boy's chance of kayoing the British fighter. Wilde was tipped that Dyson was a southpaw and could punch. He was informed that Bobby had either knocked out or won decisions over every boxer of his weight in the East who would enter a ring with him. Among them were some of the best little men in the country.

Wilde, however, had a plan for evading the issues. He asked that Dyson do 116 pounds at 9 o'clock instead of at 6 o'clock. He figured this poundage would be too low for the New Bedford favorite. Leonard put Wilde on the defensive once more when he said Dyson would make 116 pounds at 9 o'clock.

Then Wilde pulled his master crawl stroke. He demanded that the match be only ten rounds and that no decision be rendered and that Dyson weigh in at ringtime at 116 pounds with gloves, tights, shoes and bandages on. The club naturally tossed the match overboard, as Boston fans don't want no-decision bouts. Dyson would also not grant Wilde's demands, as they would virtually require him to scale at 112 pounds.

DYSON TO BOX MOORE.

Wilde may now be admitted to select American pugilistic circles. Like our own champions he won't fight a real rival for a decision.

Instead of Wilde, Dyson will have Memphis Pal Moore as an opponent in a bout at Mechanics Building on March 2 under the direction of the Armory A. A. Moore has met Wilde twice. He won the first bout and lost a decision in the second encounter. Moore has a Boston victory to his credit over Frankie (Young) Britt, while on another occasion he battled to a draw with the New England lightweight champion.

DAVID I. WALSH CLUB TO ENTERTAIN RUTH

Babe Ruth night will be observed tomorrow night at the Hotel Brunswick by the David I. Walsh Collegiate Club of Boston.

The invitation list includes the names of Senator Walsh, Mayor Andrew J. Peters, Major Thomas L. Walsh, Congressmen Tinkham and Gallivan, District-Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, Billy Murray, Eddie Casey, Governor Calvin Coolidge, Lieutenant-Governor Channing Cox, Joseph Warner, Colonel William A. Gaston, Sheriff Keliher, Edwin U. Curtis, General C. R. Edwards, General Cole, Rear-Admiral Robinson and Read-Admiral Dunne.

JOE WELSH DEFEATS AL WATERS ON POINTS

Joe Welsh of East Boston and Al Waters of the South End furnished the feature event in a special bout in the 135-pound class at St. Thomas Catholic Club, Jamaica Plain. The fighting was close enough in the first three rounds for the judges to disagree. In the extra round Welsh outpointed his apponent with his left jabs.

Johnny Lynch of Roxbury defeated Joe Tapa of East Boston in the final bout in the 115-pound class, and Pat Kelly of South Boston won the 125-pound class, defeating Mike Marget in three rounds.

24 PITCHERS OUT AT HARVARD

Thirty Battery Candidates in All Report to Coach Slattery at Baseball Cage

Thirty battery men, of whom twenty-four are pitchers, have reported to Coach Jack Slattery of Harvard. Among these are Babe Felton, Tubby Clark and Bubbles Havemeyer of the varsity football team. Felton was a member of last Spring's nine. Clark is anxious to make his baseball "H" and become the first four-letter man at Cambridge.

Other pitchers after jobs are Freddy Bullard, Doc Newton, Everett Hardell, Chick Butterfield, Carl Harrison, Bill Rice and Doc Crockett, a pair of sweet southpaws; Eddie Goode and Harian Russell. Cathers are Austin Blair, Tom Gammack, Bob Lancaster, Jerry Murphy and Johnnie Scott.

ENGLISH AND LATIN SEVENS TO BATTLE

English High and Latin School meet in their annual hockey game tomorrow at the Ice Pavilion. Neither team has had much success on the ice this year, but should stage an interesting game when they oppose each other.

HARVARD CONQUERS TECH SWORDSMEN

Harvard toppled Tech with the fencing foils, eight bouts to one. Captain Snow was the shining light with the rapiers and won the only duelling swords bout, vanquishing Revecca of Tech.

"TWO AND THREE" "PUTTING THE NEXT ONE OVER" WITH "BUGS" BAER

THE next Cabinet will be unionized like the underwear you see advertised in the street cars. They will demand an eight-hour President. The last eight-hour President we had was Judge Hughes.

IN the future all Cabinet members will have to pass the civil service examination. This will do away with the hiring and firing of members who were weighed and found Republican. There should be a law against canning a Secretary just as he accepts his job and has the swivel chair adjusted to his right height sitting down.

IN the old days the retiring Secretary used to hand his successor his portfolio. Now they hand each other timetables. It ain't no Cabinet! It's an employment bureau.

THE President has explained why he gave Lansing the works. But the explanation is something like a no-tipping sign in a barber shop. It doesn't mean anything. Official Washington doesn't know the real reason for the shindig, but they understand that Henry Cabot Lodge was observed dropping raisins in the White House toothpaste.

ANOTHER version is that a gent about the size of Lansing was spotted talking with a United States Senator. That's enough to get anybody fired in Washington this administration.

ABOUT six dozen assorted sizes and shapes of Cabinet members have been given the air. It's the first year that the White House hat checking privileges have paid a dividend.

WHEN a prominent politician gets appointed to the Cabinet now, all the reporters wheel up and take his post-mortem statement containing his reason for the rash act. Still, in spite of the transmission troubles, this has been a great Administration. Here are a few of the diplomatic triumphs:

The European war is over. For Europe.

The U. S. is a land flowing with milk and honey. Which would be all right if it weren't all wrong. The weather is damp enough without adding milk and honey to it.

We're one note ahead of Mexico.

The zone system is being used on street cars. They're heated by the Arctic zone system.

The flu can be cured outside of the three-mile limit. When it gets closer than that the victim breaks out in a rash of decimal points and is a kippered herring.

Apartments are so small in Roxbury that the paperhangers don't use any glue on the wallpaper. They put the paper on the east wall and the west wall holds it in place.

Telephone calls are still a jitney, which is only about sixty cents a number, if you get it.

Yon can get soda crackers all the year round.

GRANT IS AFTER NEW MATERIAL

Braves President Admits Regular Ball Players are Hard to Get But Has Hopes

If promises were pennants there would be a nall-Boston world's series next Fall.

Just not it is President Grant of the Braves who is doing the promising—Frazee had his innings in December and last month, but has as yet failed to score.

Among other things that Grant contemplates doing is getting a few real stars for the Braves. He very wisely qualifies his engagement to bolster the Boston National team by remarking that real stars are hard to get.

So they have been for many seasons, except when a Boston club was selling. Then they have been easy enough to acquire, as some managers in both the American and National leagues could testify.

There is one bit of cheer in President Grant's remarks—the Rabbit is to stay. So is Manager Stallings. All of which helps, though it does not necessarily mean that the Braves are going to be contenders or even will finish in the first division.

Corbett to Meet Ginsberg

Willie Corbett and his old rival, Harry Ginsberg, are scheduled for one of the all-star bout at the Suffolk A. A. next Wednesday night.

Wilson Is Ready to Battle Robinson

> "Friend Jack—A comeback to Jim McDonald's article in the American in which he says that Johnny Wilson should first defeat George Robinson before fighting Mike O'Dowd. You notice Jim didn't say a word about the fight at Bangor, Me., last July in which Wilson knocked Robinson down and had him out. McDonald says that Wilson isn't the middleweight champion of New England. Will, Jack, I would like you to state that Wilson will fight Robinson for the title, both men to weigh 158 pounds and put up $500 to make the weight and same to go as a side bet.
> "I want to hear from McDonald at once and we will put the bout on. And when they do fight Wilson will knock Robinson out."

THIRTY DARTMOUTH BASEBALL MEN OUT

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 18.—More than thirty candidates were out at the first practice of the Dartmouth baseball squad. The chief task facing Captain Merritt is to develop a pitcher to replace Cuddy Murphy, who has signed with the Red Sox.

Harvard-Amherst Swim

Harvard swimmers meet Amherst in the Boston "Y" pool late today. The Crimson mermen have already shown their spray to Springfield and Williams, and expect to leave the Amherst natators well in their wake.

Second Win for St. John's

Danvers, Feb. 18.—For the second time this season the St. John's Prep hockey team defeated Danvers High, the score being [illegible] to 0.

CHANGES VOTED AT ALBEMARLE

Clubhouse to be Enlarged and Course Improved—Dues Are Increased

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

A number of changes will be made to improve the course of the Albemarle Golf Club in West Newton, and the clubhouse will be enlarged, if reports made at the annual meeting meet with favor. It was voted to raise the dues of active members from $35 to $50.

John L. McKeon, for the greens committee, advised that an architect be engaged to improve the holes, and that the club obtain a professional. The committee recommended that the tees be rebuilt. The house committee advised that an addition to the club house contain a professional's shop.

Conference With Directors Before Acting

Action upon the reports will be taken by the 1920 committees after conferences with the board of directors. It is likely that many of the recommendations will be put through, as the treasury has $1,591 and a reserve fund of $2,597.

There was no serious objections to an increase in the dues, although Joe Farren created interest when he advocated that some other method than a direct raise of dues be resorted to as a means of combating the financial influenza. Joe's scheme did not meet with general aproval, and when a vote was taken, Joe was the only member dissenting.

Treasurer Reports All Money Collected

William Blanchard, treasurer, reported that every dollar owed to the club had been collected, and urged the members to keep up the good work. Secretary H. C. Bohr reported the membership was 164.

F. J. Fessenden, vice-president, presided. He read a letter from President C. F. Avery, who was confined to his home by illness. President Avery expressed gratification at the results obtained in 1919, and congratulated the committees.

Officers for 1920 elected were: William S. Osborn, treasurer; Clinton B. Willey, secretary; directors, F. J. Fessenden, C. F. Avery, H. J. Nichols, Dr. H. O. Hunt, L. C. Doyle, Dr. E. J. Nealls, John L. McKeon, H. F. Austen, W. N. Shelton and C. H. Simons.

WEST ROXBURY PICKED TO WIN TRACK MEET

The triangular meet at the East Armory tomorrow between West Roxbury, Mechanic Arts and the Boston Trade School should turn out to be a close and interesting affair. Although the schools are not represented by stellar track teams, they are pretty evenly matched and should stage a good meet. West Roxbury is the favorite, and Mechanic seems to be the next best. Coach Keefe of West Roxbury has some good runners in Al Rowen in the dash, Royce in the 600, Cooney in the 1,000-yard run and Merton and Lydon in the 300-yard run.

JUNIOR FIVE WINS IN HARVARD BASKETBALL

The juniors defeated the sophomores in the interclass basketball series at Harvard by the score of 25 to 20. Chase, right forward for the victors, caged five shots from the floor and hoisted in three free tries. The freshman team meets Andover this afternoon at Hemenway gym, the referee's whistle tooting for the start off at 4 o'clock.

DARTMOUTH BOWS TO ST. PAUL SEVEN

Concord, N. H., Feb. 18.—The undefeated St. Paul's School hockey team won its third game of the season by defeating the Dartmouth varsity, 4 to 0.

TOSS IN TOWEL FOR LEONARD

Kid Brown of Philadelphia Far Too Good for Local Boy at Triple A

The towel was thrown into the ring at the Armory A. A. in the seventh round of the bout between Harry Kid Brown of Philadelphia and Louis Leonard of this city by one of Leonard's seconds.

The attendant saw that Benny was in a fair way to be wrecked by the visitor, so he tossed in the token of complete surrender. There was no armistice about it, for Brown started a drive that had Leonard on the run, and it was only a question of time when it would result in the complete annihilation of Louis.

Some good fighting was seen in the preliminary bouts. Young Gould of Brockton demonstrated that Harry Ah Chung, the Salem boy, was no match for him and he won in the third round. Ah Chung, claimed that he had been hit low, but the referee did not agree with him and the verdict went to Gould.

Red McNeil carried too many guns for Young Stone, and as a result two rounds were sufficient for the latter. Little Benny had the better of Harry Forbes and he won in two rounds.

First America Cup Race, July 15

New York, Feb. 18.—The first race for the America Cup will be held off Sandy Hook July 15, and races will be held on each second day thereafter, Sundays excluded. This was decided when the New York Yacht Club formally accepted the challenge of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club of Belfast, Ire., made on behalf of Sir Thomas Lipton, whose Shamrock IV is the challenging yacht. The defending yacht will be decided by a series of trial races between the Resolute and the Vanitie.

WORCESTER COUNCIL OUT FOR LEGALIZED BOXING

Worcester, Feb. 18.—Worcester's city council has gone on record in favor of legalized boxing in Massachusetts and has authorized and instructed City Solicitor John W. Mawbey to appear before the legislative committee on legal affairs in support of bills to this effect.

GREENOUGH AND HUTCHINS VICTORS

Constantine Hutchins of the Tennis and Racquet Club defeated M. Bradlee of Harvard and H. V. Greenough of the Harvard Club put out G. D. Hayward, also of the Harvard Club, in the fourth round of the Massachusetts State squash racquets tournament in progress at the B. A. A.

RIVAL MATMEN RESTING UP

Ketonen and Kilonis at Weight and on Edge—Yokel to Wrestle Sanders

Waino Ketonen and John Kilonis are resting for their middleweight championship battle in Mechanics Building tomorrow night. Both men have already been weighed on certified scales and each has shown that the matter of weight is the least of their troubles. Both are in great shape. Kilonis especially so on account of his layoff, which has brought him back to probably what is the best form he has ever shown in this city.

Mike Yokel, who is again after the world's title, will meet Cyclone Sanders in the other number and if successful will personally challenge the winner of the main event.

The advance sale indicates another big attendance.

McTAGUE OUTCLASSES McDONALD AT HALIFAX

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 18.—Mike McTague of New York outclassed Roddie McDonald, who took the count of nine three times in both the second and eighth rounds. McDonald staged a come-back, but in the eleventh lost on a foul.

ROXBURY MAN ADMITS STEALING FROM EXPRESS

Pleading guilty to receiving stolen goods, in a case involving thousands of dollars worth of express thefts, Walter De Grann of Dudley street, Roxbury, was today held in $1,000 in the municipal court for a continuance next Tuesday. Two South Station express employes are also under arrest. The thefts, said to have been going on for a year, involve between $8,000 and $10,000.

CONTEST WILL LEAVING ALL TO DIVORCED WIFE

An interesting question is raised over the will of Seth P. Snow, real estate broker, of No. 5 Newbury street, who died September 6, 1919. The will, made in 1908, left his entire estate to his wife, Florence Josephine Snow, now of No. 85 St. Botolph street. In 1917 Snow obtained a divorce, but made no change in his will. It is claimed his former wife is not entitled to share his property, and that it should go to his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Snow of Medford, and his brothers and sisters.

DESCHANEL IS INAUGURATED

Clemenceau's Foe Succeeds M. Poincare as President of French Republic

By International News Service.

Paris, Feb. 18.—Paul Deschanel, for many years president of the Chamber of Deputies and long the political foe of former Premier Clemenceau, assumed the presidency of France today, succeeding Raymond Poincare.

President Deschanel was elected on January 17. He will serve seven years.

Simple ceremonies marked the retirement of M. Poincare and the inauguration of the new President. Crowds lined the boulevards about the presidential residence and cheered M. Deschanel and M. Poincare.

The official party was escorted to the Hotel de Ville (City Hall), where the new President was received by the head of the Municipal Council and the living ex-Presidents of the republic. M. Deschanel and M. Poincare then returned to the latter's new home, where they conversed privately for a short while. After the conference the President returned to the Elysee Palace.

Ex-President Poincare plans to take up his senatorial duties at once.

In accordance with French custom, Premier Millerand submitted the resignations of the ministry to M. Deschanel. The new President refused to accept them, asking the Cabinet to remain in office.

CARL RANDALL SPURNS CUPID'S 'BALL AND CHAIN'

Paris, Feb. 18.—Carl Randall, the famous stage dancer, who has been filling an engagement in Paris, today denied a report that he will immediately leave the stage to marry into a wealthy English family.

"No girl—not even a wealthy, titled English girl—could put the ball and chain of matrimony upon me," declared Randall.

STRAYED LAMBS ARE RETURNED TO HOME

Leslie and Sidney Lamb, 13, and 15 years old, respectively, were returned to their sister, Mrs. Lillian Shepard of Knapp street, Somerville, today, by the Salem police, who found the boys wandering about the city.

'Apology' by City Club to the Cardinal

When an invited speaker at the Boston City Club goes beyond the bound of fair and legitimate criticism in his address, or indulges in personal criticism of a member, it is a matter of regret to the board of governors.

In a resolution adopted unanimously by the board, members see an indirect apology to Cardinal O'Connell for the criticisms made of him by John R. Rathom of Providence in Mr. Rathom's address at the City Club January 29.

Mr. Rathom's charge (since denied) that Cardinal O'Connell had approved Ancient Order of Hibernians resolutions in 1916 offering sympathy to German-American citizens, was made the subject of an editorial by the Pilot, the official organ of the archdiocese, which intimated the propriety of the City Club sending an apology for Mr. Rathom's attack to the Cardinal.

The resolution read:

"It is the established custom of the Boston City Club to open its doors to speakers representing all shades of thought and opinion. For the utterances of these speakers the club assumes no responsibility. The club relies on the knowledge by its members of its broad objects and purposes to prevent anything said creating misunderstanding or giving offence. If, as occasionally happens, a statement made goes beyond the bounds of fair and legitimate criticism, that is a matter of regret to the club, as it should be to all good citizens. Any personal criticism of a member is practically to be regretted."

YANKEES BRAVE SAYS PRINCE

Writes Book on War and Declares French Were Best Marksmen

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Copyright, 1920, by Universal Service.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The ex-Crown Prince's book, entitled "The Soldiers of the World War," just published here, purports to be a critical analysis of the fighting qualities of the fighters of the various belligerents.

It is neither sensational nor particularly "deep," setting forth merely the personal views of the Kaiser's eldest son, based upon his observation as commander of one of the German army groups in the west. The book, however, contains many highly interesting passages and bespeaks an earnest effort on the author's part to be unbiased and fair. His opinion of the doughboy is summed up in these words:

"The American soldier was improvised, but he possessed good military qualities and he was a brave soldier."

By FRIEDRICH WILHELM VON HOHENZOLLERN.
Former Crown Prince of Germany.

Whoever questions the pre-eminent warlike qualities of the French soldier would only prove thereby that he does not know him. The French have always enjoyed the reputation with us as dangerous opponents, and justly so.

Only the superiority of the French artillery over ours at the beginning of the war was insufficently known. The French 75-millimeter gun shot almost a mile farther than ours. Also, the French range-finding was better.

Without desiring in any way to deny the great personal bravery of the French soldier, I believe that in hand-to-hand fighting he is inferior to ours. The French infantry usually advanced only when their splendid artillery had visibly prepared the ground.

The average Frenchman is more sensitive and susceptible to impressions than is the German. He is capable of tremendous enthusiasm when things go well, but failure will affect him intensely.

"Tommy Atkins," the British soldier, is as the brilliant English novelist, Kipling, describes him—he is a mixture of soldier, sportsman and colonial pioneer. The English army in peace time was small but very good.

According to our views, the really well-trained and schooled general was Douglas Haig, whom I have learned to know personally.

The English soldier, especially during the first half of the war, was a very brave and tenacious opponent, was a trained sportsman. He was a serious proposition in hand-to-hand fighting. To summarize, the English soldier was a splendid and thoroughly serious opponent. He did not have the leadership that the French had, and therefore the creation of a single unified command under the French was an unfavorable event for Germany.

The Austrian army in peace-time was on the whole good, but there were a number of defects from which the army had been long ailing.

Doubtless the Austro-Hungarian army did great work during the war. At the beginning it stood the brunt of the Russian attack, and in the bitter mountain fighting against the Italians, its conduct was truly heroic.

The best fighters in the Austro-Hungarian army probably were the Germans, Tyroleans and Hungarians.

Mrs. Jane Heartz, seventy, wife of Robert H. Heartz of No. 250 Norfolk street, Cambridge, is dead at her home of pneumonia after an illness of about a week. She had lived in Cambridge for more than half her life. The funeral will be Friday at 2 p. m. Mrs. Heartz is survived by her husband, two sisters and a daughter, Estelle, wife of Rev. D. Harold Hickey of Springfield.

MISSING SOMERVILLE GIRL BACK AT HOME

Isabel Davis, fifteen, who had been missing since Friday last, returned to her home at No. 62 Dartmouth street, Somerville, today, and told her father that she had been working for a private family in Roxbury. The father told the Somerville police that the family had seen the girl's description in the newspapers and ordered her to return to her home.

Stransky Conducts Beethoven's "Eroica" With Feeling; "1812" Brilliant Finish

By FRED J. McISAAC

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra, America's oldest symphonic organization, visited Boston for the first time in four years last night.

Symphony Hall was comfortably filled by an audience which was most enthusiastic and exceedingly friendly.

The Philharmonic escaped the vicissitudes which the war brought to the Boston Symphony, and has the advantage of a personel which has been unchanged for several years.

Stransky, the Bohemian conductor, is now in his ninth season and the smoothness with which the orchestra played gave testimony to its long allegiance to one leader.

Stransky had chosen the "Eroica," one of the largest and most serious of the Beethoven symphonies, but a work which offers sublime moments. The performance was brilliant in the extreme. The tone of the orchestra came rich and fine, its technique is unsurpassed and its response to the clean-cut beat and keen intellect of the conductor instant.

The Rachmaninoff tune poem, "The Isle of the Dead," was played with poetic insight, and the Bacchanale from Tannhauser went brilliantly.

The ever popular Overture "1812" gave a rousing end to a very attractive program.

MORE COLD ON WAY HERE

There May Be a Drop of 20 Degrees in Temperature of Boston

It's going to be colder, much colder, the Weather Man said today, with a moderate cold wave late tonight and with Thursday about the same. And to add a little breeziness to the meteorological perplexities of the coming twenty-four hours there will be moderate variable winds, becoming northwesterly.

In fact, says Forecaster Smith, the bottom may drop out of the compass tonight after the mercury takes a drop. Mercury may drop twenty degrees. After the recent ructions in the weather calendar nobody thought there was a drop left in the thermometer.

Which led the office boy or junior clerk in the local Weather Bureau to paraphrase:

The best laid plans of mice and men and this same spirit led Forecaster Smith to reflect that it was minus 18—that's 18 below—at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Parry Sound, but 36 above in Boston, Nantucket and Block Island; 72 at Key West, Fla.
Are—covered with icicles now and then.

LIMERICK MEN LAUD HEARST

Mayo Men Challenge Ulster Mission; Societies Prepare for Emmet Day

Cheers and prolonged applause greeted the passage of a resolution endorsing William Randolph Hearst for his "invaluable aid to the cause of Irish freedom" at an enthusiastic meeting of the Limerick Association in Russell Hall, Deacon building, South End.

Speeches characterizing Hearst as a 100 per cent American, and as being free from "the slimy hand of gluttonous British greed," were made by many of the members prior to the passage of the resolution, which read:

"Resolved: That this organization of Limerick men give its sincere thanks to the Hon. William Randolph Hearst and his brilliant chain of publications for their invaluable aid to the cause of Irish freedom, and that we regard Mr. Hearst as a foe of wrong and an honest friend of justice and liberty.

"Signed on behalf of the association.

"STANDISH J. REIDY,
"Treasurer."

ULSTERITES CHALLENGED.

"What right has England in Ireland?" is a question members of the Mayo Men's Benevolent Association wish to have "the accredited delegates of the Protestant churches of Ireland" in Boston against the separation of the Emerald Isle from Great Britain answer, according to a resolution passed by that organization at a meeting in Rathbone Hall, No. 694 Washington street.

The resolution, offered by President Michael J. Morrison, reads:

"Resolved: That the Mayo Men's Benevolent Asociation, composed of 100 per cent. Americans, extend an invitation to the Ulster delegation, who represent themselves and the whole British Empire, so as to hold themselves secure in their soft jobs, give the liberty-loving and fair-minded Americans a plain statement of fact, stripped of calumny and empty phrases—what right has England in Ireland?"

PREPARE FOR EMMET DAY.

The organization voted to buy $1,000 worth of Irish bond certificates. A committee consisting of President Morrison, Patrick F. Hastings, John McDonald, Martin G. Judge, John Hastings and Austin Needham was appointed to put the Irish bond drive "over the top." At the meeting to be held on February 26, the association will entertain women of the auxiliary in connection with the ctlebration commemorating the birth of Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot.

Protest against the United States loaning money to "any foreign nation where there is a possibility of the same being used to keep an army of occupation in Ireland" was made at a mass meeting of the County Dublin Association, a branch of the Central Council of Irish County clubs, in Russell Hall, South End.

Committees will be appointed to arrange for a Robert Emmet day celebration at tomorrow night's meeting of the County Carlow Association in Deacon Hall, South End. President M. R. Kinsella will submit a report on matters dealing with the Irish bond certificate drive.

Delegations from subordinate branches of the Irish National Foresters' Benefit Association, with representatives of other organizations will attend the meeting of Branch Thomas Francis Meagher Sunday afternoon at No. 251 Cambridge street, West End.

ARREST SOUTH END MAN AS EXPRESS TEAM THIEF

Inspectors Donovan and Butler of police headquarters arrested Walter Kramer, 22 years old, who gave his adress as 23 Worcester square, in the shopping district charged with larceny of bundles from express wagons. The police charge that he took bundles of merchandise valued at $350 on February 3 and that he was attempting the larceny of a bundle containing $50 worth of goods owned by a Boston department store when captured.

THE VALLEY OF THE GIANTS

By Peter B. Kyne

"WELL, about the time old Pennington started for San Francisco this morning, I had our attorney out of bed and on the long distance telephone; at 9 o'clock this morning he appared in the United States District Court; at nine-fifteen the judge signed a restraining order forbidding our enemies to interfere with us in the exercise of a right legally granted us by the city of Sequoia, and at nine-thirty a deputy United States marshal started in an automobile for Sequoia, via the overland route. He will arrive late tomorrow night, and on Sunday we will get that locomotive out of our way and install our crossing."

"And Pennington——"

"Ah, the poor Pennington! Mon pauvre Seth!" Buck sighed comically. "He will be just twenty-four hours late."

At eleven o'clock Saturday night the deputy United States marshal arrived in Sequoia. Upon the advice of Buck Ogilvy, however, he made no attempt at service that night, notwithstanding the fact that Jules Rondeau and his bullies still guarded the crossing. At eight o'clock Sunday morning, however, Bryce Cardigan drove him down to the crossing. Buck Ogilvy was already there with his men, superintending the erection of a huge derrick close to the heap of obstructions placed on the crossing. Sexton was watching him uneasily, and flushed as Ogilvy pointed him out to the marshal.

"There's your meat, Marshal," he announced. The marshal approached and extended toward Sexton a copy of the restraining order. The latter struck it aside and refused to accept it—whereupon the deputy marshal tapped him on the shoulder with it. "Tag! You're out of the game, my friend," he said pleasantly.

As the documents fluttered to Sexton's feet, the latter turned to Jules Rondeau. "I can no longer take charge here, Rondeau," he explained. "I am forbidden to interfere."

"Jules Rondeau can do ze job," the woods boss replied easily. "Ze law, she have not restrain' me. I guess mebbeso you don't take dose theengs away, eh, M'sieur Cardigan. Myself, I lak see."

Calls Meeting

The deputy marshal handed Rondeau a paper, at the same time showing his badge. "You're out, too, my friend," he laughed. "Don't be foolish and try to buck the law. If you do, I shall have to place a nice little pair of handcuffs on you and throw you in jail—and if you resist arrest, I shall have to shot you. I have one of these little restraining orders for every able bodied man in the Laguna Grande Lumber Company's employ—thanks to Mr. Ogilvy's foresight; so it is useless to try to beat this game on a technicality."

Sexton, who still lingered, made a gesture of surrender. "Dismiss your crew, Rondeau," he ordered. "We're whipped to a frazzle."

Colonel Pennington's discovery at San Francisco that Bryce Cardigan had stolen his thunder and turned the bolt upon him, was the hardest blow Seth Pennington could remember having received throughout thirty-odd years of give and take. He was too old and experienced a campaigner, however, to permit a futile rage to cloud his reason; he prided himself upon being a foeman worthy of any man's steel.

On Tuesday he returned to Sequoia. Sexton related to him in detail the events which had transpired since his departure, but he elicited nothing more than a non-committal grunt.

"There is one more matter, sir, which will doubtless be of interest to you," Sexton continued apologetically. "Miss Sumner called me on the telephone yesterday and instructed me formally to notify the board of directors of the Laguna Grande Company of a special meeting of the board, to be held here at two o'clock this afternoon. In view of the impossibility of communicating with you while you were en route, I conformed to her wishes. Our by-laws, as you know, stipulate that no meeting of the board shall be called without formal notice to each director mailed twenty-four hours previously."

"What the devil do you mean, Sexton, by conforming to her wishes? Miss Sumner is not a director of this company." Pennington's voice was harsh and trembled with apprehension.

"Miss Sumner controls 40 per cent. of the Laguna Grande stock, sir. I took that into consideration."

"You lie!" Pennington all but screamed. "You took into consideration your job as secretary and general manager. Damnation!"

"Shirley," Pennington began in a hoarse voice as she entered his office, "what is the meaning of this directors' meeting you have requested?"

Wonderful Timber

"Be seated, Uncle Seth," the girl answered quietly. "If you will only be quiet and reasonable, perhaps we can dispense with this directors' meeting which appears to frighten you so."

He sat down promptly, a look of relief on his face.

"I scarcely know how to begin, Uncle Seth," Shirley commenced sadly. "It hurts me terribly to be forced to hurt you, but there doesn't appear to be any other way out of it. I cannot trust you to manage my financial affairs in the future—this for a number of reasons, the principal one being——"

"Young Cardigan," he interrupted in a low voice.

"I suppose so," she answered, "although I did think until very recently that it was those sixteen townships of red cedar—that crown grant in British Columbia in which you induced me to invest four hundred thousand dollars. You will remember that you purchased that timber for me from the Caribou Timber Company, Limited. You said it was an unparalleled investment. Quite recently I learned—no matter how—that you were the principal owner of the Caribou Timber Company, Limited! Smart as you are, somebody swindled you with that red cedar.

"It was a wonderful stand of timber—so read the cruiser's report—but 50 per cent. of it, despite its green and flourishing appearance, is hollow-butted! And the remaining 50 per cent. of sound timber cannot be logged unless the rotten timber is logged also and gotten out of the way also. And I am informed that logging it spells bankruptcy."

You Just Try NR For That Indigestion

Get your organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination working in harmony and watch your trouble disappear. NR does it or money back.

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

The stomach only partly digests the food we eat. The process is finished in the intestines where the food is mixed with bile from the liver.

It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes this, that the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony if digestive troubles are to be avoided or overcome.

This fact also explains why sufferers from indigestion, also suffer more or less from headaches, biliousness and constipation.

If you are one of the many unfortunate persons who cannot eat without suffering afterward, if you are constipated, have bilious spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, variable appetite, are nervous, losing energy and feel your health slipping away, take this advice and get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) right today and start taking it.

Give it a trial for a week or two and just see how much better you feel. See how quickly your sluggish bowels will become as regular as clock work, how your coated tongue clears up and your good, old-time appetite returns. See how splendidly your food will digest and how your energy, "pep" and "ginger" revive. Just try it.

You take no risk whatever for Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is only 25c a box, enough to last twenty-five days, and it must help and benefit you to your entire satisfaction, or money returned.

Five million boxes are used every year—one million NR Tablets are taken by ailing people every day—that's the best proof of its merits. Nature's Remedy is the best and safest thing you can take for biliousness, constipation, indigestion and similar complaints. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

$50,000 FIRE IN EAST BOSTON

Two Buildings Destroyed in Two-Alarm Blaze on Waterfront

Two buildings were destroyed in a stubborn two-alarm fire on the wharf of the Bertelsen and Petersen Engineering Company at Nos. 240-264 Border street, East Boston, causing damage estimated at over $50,000. Priceless patterns were included in the loss.

The fire, which for a time threatened to wipe out the entire water front on Border street from Central square to the Chelsea creek, necessitated the summoning of apparatus from Revere and Chelsea. Firemen were considerably handicapped because of the heavy snow and difficulty in starting the water supply from the hydrants.

The flames gathered rapid headway and not until the combined efforts of two powerful fireboats and streams from several pieces of apparatus were directed toward the fire was the blaze placed under control. The coppersmith building, in which valuable quantities of copper were stored, and a building known as the oakum loft, were completely wiped out.

Prof. Skinner to Speak

Professor Clarence R. Skinner of Tufts College will speak on "Industrial Democracy" at an open forum tonight in Clarendon Street Baptist Church.

WILL RADIUM AT LAST OPEN THE DOOR OF THE GREAT UNKNOWN?

If you are sick and want to Get Well and Keep Well, write for literature that tells How and Why this almost unknown and wonderful new element brings relief to so many sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Neuritis, Neuralgia, Nervous Prostration, High Blood Pressure and diseases of the Stomach, Heart, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys and other ailments. You wear this Radio-Active Solar Pad day and night, receiving the Radio-Active Rays continuously into your system, causing a healthy circulation, overcoming sluggishness, throwing off impurities and restoring the tissues and nerves to a normal condition—and the next thing you know you are getting well.

Sold on a test proposition. You are thoroughly satisfied it is helping you before the appliance is yours. Nothing to do but wear it. No trouble or expense, and the most wonderful fact about the appliance is that it is sold so reasonably that it is within the reach of all, both rich and poor.

No matter how bad your ailment, or how long standing, we will be pleased to have you try it at our risk. For full information write today—not tomorrow. Radium Appliance Co., 661 Bradbury bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.—Advertisement.

HELLO, BILL, GOT A NEW OVERCOAT ?

No, this is my Army Overcoat I had dyed by the Peerless Dye Works for $4, and say, my mother had her dress dyed by them and it looks fine. They know how to dye goods, without shrinking, a fast, beautiful color, and at the lowest prices in Boston.

Singer Comes Back in 'Royal Vagabond'

FRANCES DEMAREST.

Frances Demarest returns to Boston in one of the most important roles of "The Royal Vagabond," at the Colonial Theatre. Miss Demarest is one of the most popular prima donnas of light opera, and though she has not visited this city for several seasons, she hasn't been forgotten.

Miss Demarest first won fame by singing "Every Little Movement Has Meaning All Its Own" in "Mme. Sherry." She began her stage career in Boston at the Tremont Theatre in "The Man from Now," and she has been prominent in a line of successes since.

SOUTH BOSTON K. OF C. TO HOLD MEMORIAL MASS

Plans have been completed by South Boston Council, Knights of Columbus, for a memorial mass to be celebrated at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, West Broadway, next Monday morning. The Rev. William H. Grant will be the officiating clergyman and after the mass a breakfast will be served in St. Joseph's Hall at which prominent speakers will address the members.

Allows H. B. Rogers Will

The will of Harriet B. Rogers of Billerica, who died December 14, 1913, has been allowed. Frederick P. Marble of Lowell and Isabella W. T. Clark of Billerica have been appointed executors. The estate is valued at $29,100.

THE SHEPARD STORES

Annual Sale
1200 Samples of Fancy
Linens

ONCE a year this opportunity comes to us—to buy samples at great savings. We are selling them at prices that mean savings of at least 1-3 to you.

To be sure they are all slightly mussed and they are marked with the manufacturers' labels—but certainly it is worth your while to get them at these prices and then have them washed.

There are scarfs and square table covers to match and also scarfs and centrepieces to match.

The Scarfs, 45c to 16.50

Edges of imitation filet or Cluny trim many of them, some have linen centres.

One scarf that would be very pretty on the sideboard has a fine imitation Cluny edge, 95c.

There is one splendid all linen scarf with heavy linen lace edge, 3.25. With centrepiece to match, which is also 3.25.

The Table Covers, 59c to 8.00

Square table covers of heavy cotton with edges of imitation Cluny and filet—some with hemstitched edges.

These squares can be used for pillow shams as well.
One square table cover with deep edge of imitation filet is 75c.

The Doilies, 5c to 8.00

There are neat little machine scalloped doilies, lace trimmed doilies and all-over lace doilies.

A few prices will serve to show you how moderately these are priced.

A 6-inch all-over lace doily is 5c.
A 10-inch lace dolly is 15c.

The Centre-pieces, 5c to 8.00

Some are of linen, some of cotton. They are trimmed with imitation filet and Cluny lace. Some are simply edged with lace—others have insertion and medallions in the centre as well.

One centrepiece with imitation filet insertion and deep edge is 2.35.

There are scarfs to match this, 18x36 inches, 1.39.
18x45 inches, 1.50.

CITIZENS MAY RUN LYNN CARS

Revocation of Practically All Jitney Licenses Is Planned

Lynn, Feb. 18.—Revocation March 1 of all jitney licenses except those issued to community bus lines running to North Saugus and Lynnfield, where there is no street car service, is contemplated by the City Council. A public hearing will be given tomorrow night.

There are fifty-nine licenses involved, but only forty-two are affected as the other seventeen had licenses to run to Lynn from Salem and Peabody and they ceased doing business some time ago.

The trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts system have offered to turn the management of the Lynn division over to a committee of citizens, to be selected by Mayor Creamer, to sell sixteen-ride tickets for $1 and to double track the Myrtle-street line and make other track improvements.

They predict that within three months eighteen-ride tickets will be sold for $1, and that within a year the fare unit will be five cents.

BROOKLINE TOWN OFFICERS NOMINATED

The four present members of the Brookline Board of Selectmen were renominated at the town caucus and George S. Baldwin was nominated for the vacancy caused by the appointment of Payson Dana as head of the State Civil Service Commission.

William J. Love, one of the town auditors, failed of renomination. David B. Church and James B. Duffy were nominated for auditors, together with Chester T. Burr of the present board.

The Revere Woman's Club holds its opening meeting this afternoon in the vestry of the Congregational Church of Revere. Miss Ethel Berner and Miss Lila Watson will give a lecture and recital. Miss Harriet L. Fenno is chairman.

BEGIN 'MAKING OF AMERICANS'

State-Wide Drive Will Be Opened With Meeting Tonight at Faneuil Hall

Headed by a band, members of the James E. Welch Post, North End Post, William E. Carter Post and the Boston Firemen's Post of the American Legion will march through the downtown streets tonight to Faneuil Hall, where the mass meeting of the American Legion's "Make Friends With an Alien Week" will be held.

Tonight's meeting at Faneuil Hall is the launching in the city proper of the State-wide drive that the legion, co-operating with the Boston Committee for Americanism, is making throughout Massachusetts.

The speakers at Faneuil Hall tonight will be Governor Coolidge, Mayor Peters, Colonel Edward L. Logan, Michael J. Downey, chairman of the Boston Committee for Americanism; Hon. John I. Fitzgerald and A. C. Ratchetsky. Delegations from the leading civic organizations throughout Boston will have seats on the platform, and preceding the speeches there will be community singing and the playing of patriotic airs.

WAR VETERAN WANTS DIVORCE SET ASIDE

Springfield, Feb. 18.—"Rusty" Graham, war veteran, has appealed to have set aside the divorce decree granted his wife, daughter of a prominent physician and at one time an artist's model in New York. Graham is the son of the former State Game Commissioner, and saw service with the 104th Regiment.

What causes Indigestion

An excess of acid in the stomach sours the food and starts fermentation. Distressing gases form. Your meals don't digest, but lay like lumps of lead. Then you have heartburn, flatulence, fullness, belching, headache, and real misery in the stomach and intestines.

A few tablets of "Pape's Diapepsin" bring relief almost as soon as they reach the stomach. "Pape's Diapepsin" costs little at drug stores.—Advertisement.

Indians Say U. S. Owes Them $5,000,000

Washington, Feb. 18.—Uncle Sam owes a small matter of $5,000,000 to the Pitt tribe of California Indians, according to Chief Grindstone, who has come to the Pale Faces' capital in the role of collector.

Chief Grindstone, who also answers to the name of Charles Green, declares his claims are backed by eighteen Indian treaties, signed years ago but never ratified by the Senate. He presented himself at the White House, but no one there had $5,000,000 about him, so the chief was referred to the Interior Department.

(OF DELAWARE)

$10,000,000 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock (Par Value $100 per Share)	$10,500,000 Common Stock (Par Value $15 per Share)

Dividend on Preferred Stock payable quarterly, January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1. First dividend payable April 1, 1920, will be for month of March only. Callable, as a whole or in part, at the option of the Company, at 115 and accrued dividends.

DIVIDENDS EXEMPT FROM NORMAL FEDERAL INCOME TAX

TRANSFER AGENT:	REGISTRAR:
(Both Preferred and Common Stock) Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Ill.	(Both Preferred and Common Stock) First Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Ill.

The Armour Leather Company has been organized under the Laws of the State of Delaware, and will acquire all of the tanning companies and leather assets now owned by Armour and Company at figures which do not include any value for good will. The gross volume of business in 1919 was approximately $90,000,000.

CAPITALIZATION

	Authorized	To be immediately issued and outstanding
7% Cumulative Preferred Stock ($100 par)	$25,000,000	$10,000,000
Common Stock ($15 par)	$15,000,000	*$15,000,000
Founders' Stock (no par value)…..shares	100,000	†100,000

*$4,500,000 Common Stock is reserved to be offered to employees and customers of the Company.

†The Founders' Stock will be subscribed for and acquired by Armour and Company, who will pay $5 a share for same.

The Company will have no bonds outstanding and covenants not to permit the creation of any mortgages or liens upon the present property of either the Company or the companies whose stock the Company is about to acquire, without the consent of the holders of two-thirds in par value of the Preferred Stock outstanding at the time.

Net assets, based on valuations of November 1, 1919, will be $25,500,000, equal to $255 per share of Preferred Stock outstanding. Net quick assets will be $16,043.564, which is equal to $160 per share of Preferred Stock outstanding.

Additional Preferred Stock can only be issued to an amount equal to 75% of the cost of extensions, additions, betterments and improvements and of new property acquired, and then only provided earnings for a period of twelve months have been at least three times the amount required for dividends on all Preferred Stock outstanding and the new stock to be issued.

The Company agrees to maintain at all times, net assets equal to at least 200%, and net quick assets equal to at least 125% of the par value of all Preferred Stock outstanding.

Earnings available for dividends, after Federal taxes during the last fiscal year were $6,195,624; average annual net earnings during the last four-year period were $4,485,215. Thus, net earnings for the last fiscal year were over eight times, and average earnings of the last four years were in excess of six times dividend requirements on present issue of Preferred Stock.

After preferred dividends, the remaining surplus earnings shall be available for dividends on the Common and Founders' Stock, in equal aggregate amounts. For a period of three years dividends on the Founders' Stock shall be limited if earnings are less than $4,000,000.

After providing for dividends on the Preferred Stock, the earnings for the last fiscal year were equivalent to 18.3% on the Common Stock (this after deducting an equal aggregate amount on the Founders' Stock), and the average annual net earnings during the four-year period were 12.6% on the Common Stock on the same basis.

The officers and directors of the Company will be principally those who have been engaged in the operation of the companies now being acquired, and who have in a large measure been responsible for their growth and development.

APPLICATION WILL BE MADE TO LIST BOTH THE PREFERRED AND COMMON STOCK ON THE CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE

All legal proceedings approved by Messrs. Mayer, Meyer, Austrian and Platt, Attorneys, Chicago; Balance Sheet and Earnings certified to by Price, Waterhouse & Co., Chicago; Appraisals made by American Appraisal Co., Milwaukee.

Price—in blocks {$100 par value, Preferred, 1 Share / $105 par value, Common, 7 Shares} $200 per block

(This is equivalent to price of $95 per share on Preferred Stock and $15 per share on the Common Stock)

Subscriptions, accompanied by initial payment of 10%, will be received on behalf of the Company by

Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago

Bankers Trust Company, New York
Fiscal Agents

who will on request furnish copies of a letter from the Company giving detailed information, which can also be obtained at the various offices of Armour and Company.

Stocks Rally in N. Y.; Call Money Renews at 6%

CARRIERS LED AN ADVANCE

Oils Follow Rails Upward and Whole List Shows an Improvement

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, the rally which followed the first hour reaction continuing during the forenoon. Rails were the leaders in the upturn, followed closely by oils and motors.

After early weakness steels joined in the forward movement, Republic being the only issue in this group to prove a laggard. Morning gains ranged from fractions to four points. The market was comparatively quiet, first hour transactions totalling about 235,000 shares.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent. This contributed to the strength of stocks. In the foreign exchange market demand sterling advanced ⅝c to $3.35½ at the opening.

PRICES HIGHER AT OPENING.

An advance in prices at the opening was not of long duration, stocks being freely offered and the supply swamping demand. Early gains varied from fractions to two points or more, with railroads leading the upturn. Oils were strong and steels weak. Motors lacked support and all the leaders in this department receded. Strength characterized shipping and equipment issues. Sugars were higher. Among specialties to make a good display were International Paper and National Enameling. At the end of thirty minutes most stocks had lost gains wholly or in part and the market had become weak. A rally followed and by mid-morning prices were above the opening level. Trading was professional. Fluctuations were not wide eighter on the rise or the descent, three points being about the limit. Rails and oils had the best support, buying of the carriers being by important interests, according to Wall Street rumors.

MONEY VIEWS VARY.

Opinions as to the money outlook are not all alike. Some financiers expect a relaxation in rates before long while others think there will be nothing easy about the situation for weeks. A leading New York banker has expressed the belief that interest rates have heached the peak and that soon thre will be plenty o money for the stock market. According to reports received this morning there is less difficulty in obtaining funds for operating in securities than in financing transactions in commodities. While the call rate is declining there is persistent talk of another advance in rediscount rates by Federal Reserve bankers.

Sentiment was more cheerful this morning, although the market movement indicated that traders are nervous and seeking positions where they will be able to make turns as quickly as developments inspire shifts. Washington events in the future may be as surprising as those of the past. There is great uncertainty and very little confidence as to conditions at the seat of government.

LOANS TO FARMERS BY FEDERAL LAND BANKS

Loans to 4,402 farmers in January this year by Feloral Land Banks totalled $15,055,935 and the money was placed on long-time first mortgages. There were 6,377 applications for loans received by the twelve land banks, and the aggregate of the amounts wanted was $25,073,158. The St. Paul bank made loans amounting to $2,607,300 and led the list in this respect. The Houston Bank came second with $2,487,985 placed.

At the end of last month there were operating in the United States 3,944 farm loan associations and total mortgage loans made by the Federal Land Banks through these associations to 118,189 farmer borrowers as of that date, amounted to $318,445,231. The loans paid off in full by these borrowers amounted to $7,941,265.

COTTON EXPORTS AGAIN BREAK HIGH RECORD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—Despite depreciation in European exchange in recent weeks, exports of domestic raw cotton from the United States in January of 478,082,139 pounds or 929,671 bales, invoiced at $194,965,353 exceeded in value and number of bales shipped the former high record set in November last of 478,545,387 pounds or 924,751 bales, worth $181,389,272, the Department of Commerce announces.

England was the largest purchaser, followed by Japan, Italy, France, Belgium and Canada.

SMOOT OPPOSES LEGION PLAN

Members Cast Doubt on His Apparently Friendly Statements

This is the sixth of a series of articles of unusual appeal to every ex-service man and woman and of great importance to every legion post. They should interest the beneficiaries, dependents, relatives and friends of soldiers, sailors and marines. The next article will appear tomorrow.

By CHARLES O. POWER.

When a man holding the exalted office of United States Senator makes a public statement and a solemn promise he is believed and relied upon to make good by the average citizen. Strange as it may seem, there are some doubts in the minds of high officials of the American Legion and State commanders, either as to Senator Smoot's absolute sincerity or possession of exact knowledge of matters affecting the best interests of former service men. This doubt persists even though he has given this assurance:

"All I have in my heart is to do that which will be for the best interests of the men who have served our country and the loved ones, who have died for our flag and when I can judge by the sentiment by what I deem the general sentiment of the members of the Legion, then shall I undertake to form it into legislation or support it with all the power at my command."

Members of the national legislative committee of the Legion and State commanders I have talked with agree with me that Senator Smoot is a very able and influential member of the Senate. So does Director Jones of the War Risk Bureau. Besides being able and powerful in the Senate, as at present organized, some of them give him credit for being a very smooth proposition.

LOSING FAITH IN SMOOT.

They declare they cannot reconcile his promises with his performances, nor his explanations with actual happenings. For instance, they say that he made the following statement on the evening of December 17, last, referring to the delay on the Sweet bill by the Senate of which the Legion had complained:

"There has been no possible chance of bringing it before the Senate. I have it ready and it will be reported there at the first opportunity. But when this bill passed the House and came to the Senate we had the peace treaty and nothing could have taken precedence of that. We did not think that it was going to take so long to pass the railroad bill.

"We kept hoping and trusting that it would get out of the way, and I knew that, if I reported the bill and put it upon the calendar, it would not have nearly so good a chance of being acted upon at once as if reported when I could have unanimous consent for immediate consideration of it, and I shall trust, if I ask that, that there will not be a Senator who will refuse to grant it."

NOT A SENATOR OBJECTED.

The members of the Legion are at a loss to comprehend the accuracy of these statements made by the senator since many bills were taken up on the floor of the Senate between September [illegible], the date on which the Sweet bill was referred to the Senate, and December 20, the day on which it was acted upon. There were passed fifty-two bills in all and [illegible] joint resolutions.

If other members of the committees of the Senate found it possible to get this volume of material approved by the Senate, for the passing of such legislation of varying grades of importance, very little of it having anywhere near the importance of the legislation affecting our disabled soldiers, it seems rather unique that legislation as important as the Sweet bill should be delayed for a period of three months.

Incidently, if it took the bureaus of the government that long to operate in the handling of their important affairs, it is interesting to surmise what the attitude of Congress would be towards them, and yet when there is a delay of this kind in Congress, the criticisms are not of that legislative body, but of the administrative heads of the various government bureaus.

The day before the Senator made the statement quoted above he did ask unanimous consent and not a senator objected. There is a belief among Legion leaders that he did not intend to call up the Sweet bill until the peace treaty was out of the way.

SWEET BILL WEAKENED.

They profess to know that he so informed Senator Williams, one of his associates on the sub-committee handling the Legion's legislative affairs and also Director Jones of the War Risk Bureau. They seem to think that it was the conference with State commanders that made him see a new light because one week after that, he had called up the Sweet bill and it had become law. Although in his care, the Sweet bill went through in a reduced and weakened form and nothing was done to secure favorable action on a number of resolutions from the Legion which were called to the attention of the Senate and House committees dealing with war risk legislation.

One of the points which the American Legion have been very insistent upon is that the lump sum and other features added to the converted policies shall be also allowed for the War Risk term insurance carried during peace times, but that these features shall not be retroactive as applied to term insurance, and it is interesting to note that Director Cholmeley Jones repeatedly has urged that this feature be included in the original Sweet bill.

TO NOTIFY SMOOT.

The strong recommendation of the American Legion is that the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the Federal Board for Vocational Education, the Public Health Service and the Pension Bureau shall be under one cabinet office, or general manager, or director so that all of their activities and records may be coordinated.

Director Jones of the War Risk Bureau supports this recommendation. So does the Treasury Department. In a statement opposing the breaking up of the bureau, as proposed, Assistant Secretary J. E. Shouse challenges the claim that the various departments of it by being separated and thrown into other departments, could be conducted either so economically or so successfully as when grouped together in one building and under one head.

And so it would seem to be up to Senator Smoot to explain where he gets this stuff which he must rely upon to justify his running counter to the wishes of the Legion. Does he gauge Legion sentiment, for which he has avowed so much respect, by secret and mysterious tests of his own rather than by the declarations of the chosen leaders of the organization. Of one thing he may be sure. His bill will have no Legion backing.

Thanks American for Waking Up America

Miss Dorothy C. O'Keefe of Lynn, the school girl who wrote the $500 prize paper on Abraham Lincoln in the American's recent contest, has sent the following letter to the American:

"I have not written this letter to say that I am glad to have written the prize paper in your Lincoln essay contest. In the first place, that goes without saying. In the second place 'glad' is not the word. But I should like to thank the Boston American, and, if I may, wish it good luck in its efforts to 'wake up America.' One good turn surely deserves another, and this is the best I can offer.

"Sincerely yours,

"DOROTHY CUSHING O'KEEFE."

WANT DEFENCE COUNCIL TO CONTINUE ITS WORK

Washington, Feb. 18.—The proposal of the United States Council of National Defence now before Congress for the future performance of its work, has been endorsed by various business organizations, it was stated today. Among them are the United States Chamber of Commerce, National Association of Manufacturers, Associated Business Papers and the United Publishers' Corporation. Frank A. Vanderlip, Daniel Willard, Otto H. Kahn and Lindsey M. Garrison have also urged that the council be continued.

GEDDES OR FISHER MAY SUCCEED GREY

London, Feb. 18.—Sir Auckland Geddes, minister of reconstruction, and Rt. Hon. H. L. Fisher, president of the Board of Education, were again mentioned today among the possible successors of Viscount Grey as British ambassador to the United States. Both had been spoken of before Earl Reading, lord chief justice, declined the post.

EXPLAIN ACTION IN DEAN CASE

Selectmen Deny Bartlett's Charge of Besmirching State's Reputation

East Jaffrey, N. H., Feb. 18.—To refute the charge made by Governor Bartlett that newspaper publicity relative to the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean by enemy agents was besmirching the State of New Hampshire, the selectmen of this town sent letters to the publishers of the Concord Monitor and the Manchester Mirror, requesting that they publish the same. The one sent to the Manchester Mirror said in part:

East Jaffrey, N. H.,
Feb. 14, 1920.

"Editor of the Mirror: In view of the candor and fairness with which you have treated the Dean case in your news columns, we wish to ask you to indulge us in placing before the people of New Hampshire our position in regard to the unfortunate occurrences of last Thursday at the Council Chamber in Concord.

CHARGE INACTIVITY.

"Since a short time after the murder of Dr. Dean, we have felt that the State and county officials have not been so active and efficient in the prosecution of the case as the circumstances require. The reasons for this opinion on our part are too many and varied for us to go into detail at this time, but suffice it to say that we are supported in our position by a great number of citizens of this and surrounding towns.

"With this in view, we took up with the Governor the matter of a conference, and this was arranged for Thursday, Jan. 15. We expected at this meeting to talk the matter over with him in a friendly way, show him our reasons for our belief and leave the matter in his hands. Therefore, we had not previously to that meeting, consulted with counsel in this matter.

"What followed has been well advertised. The Governor insisted that the conference was not a 'hearing,' declined to allow Mr. Guterman to speak for us, declined to listen to the relatives of Dr. Dean and by implication characterized the proceeding as an attempt to besmirch the fair name of New Hampshire.

"Under the circumstances there seemed nothing left to do but to withdraw, which we did. Several facts stand out in bold relief in this connection which should not be lost sight of by the citizens of New Hampshire. A citizen of the State has been murdered. His assailants have not been discovered. Many citizens of this vicinity believe that all possible has not been done to discover the murderers.

"The relatives of Dr. Dean feel likewise. We cannot understand how it can be construed as besmirching the good reputation of the Granite State to demand and reiterate the demand that the case be reopened, for the peace of mind of a large body of citizens, even though at some expense to the State.

INCREASING FOREIGN TRADE IN COTTON

That foreign trade in cotton and cotton goods has not been curtailed by depreciated foreign exchange is shown by Department of Commerce and other reports for January. In that month this country exported 9[illegible]9,671 bales of domestic raw cotton invoiced at $194,963,[illegible]3, and established a high record for shipments. England was the biggest buyer.

During that month England shipped 14,000,000 yards of cotton cloth to this country. In fact, American imports of British cotton fabrics in January this year were almost three times as large as for the corresponding month in 1914. Then they totalled 5,000,000 yards.

RECORD BUILDING BOOM IS PREDICTED

More than 600 stockholders and guests of the Massachusetts Realty Commercial Company at the Boston City Club heard [illegible] H. Blackall, architect, declare that we are on the threshold of the greatest boom in the building industry that the world has ever known. He said:

"Prices are going to remain high. Where formerly hundreds of thousands were invested at 10 per cent, now millions will be invested at 15 per cent."

WIFE SEEKS TRACE OF HENRY RYMILL

Will anybody who sees Henry K. Rymill communicate with his wife, Mrs. Rymill, at No. 337 East Eagle street, East Boston? Rymill has been seen lately driving a farm wagon in the vicinity of Wakefield and the East Side, Melrose. He may be easily distinguished as his face twitches with a form of St. Vitus dance.

When Rymill went away from home last May, he left behind his wife and four children, aged twelve, ten, five and two. He is described by his wife as of dark complexion, five feet six inches in height, with brown eyes.

ELIZABETH J. MURPHY'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Elizabeth J. Murphy of No. 10 Milton road, Brookline. Mrs. Murphy was seventy-two years old. Two sons and two daughters survive her, Walter E., of the Boston Post, John D., former newspaper man and now in the automobile industry; Mrs. Arthur P. Moran and Miss Maude Murphy. Funeral services will take place at St. Mary's Church of the Assumption, Brookline, at 9 a. m.

URGES PENNSYLVANIA BUY HOG ISLAND YARD

Washington, Feb. 18.—Purchase of the Hog Island shipyard property by the State of Pennsylvania was urged today by Representative Edmunds of Philadelphia in a letter to Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania. He advised that the State operate the property for the benefit of the city and State, and said that this property should not be allowed to fall into the hands of private corporations.

IT'S WHITE AND 90c

NEW SAFETY PAPER is the stuff out of which Millionaires should be made only for the fact that it is owned by over 600 WORKERS, therefore the wealth produced by this business will be distributed among hundreds, whose lives will be the better worth living. This contains the last word in Social Reconstruction. It is the only logical and American distribution of wealth. It gives every man HIS CHANCE. It is the co-operative effort of PRACTICAL WORKERS, not long-haired men and short-haired women. That's another reason why IT'S WHITE.

It started with an idea, developed into a new chemical discovery, and checks up as a Big, Money-Making Business.

There is still a chance for you to join hands in this new industry that is protected by the same American safeguards which made great successes in other new discoveries, and obtain 30% the 1st year, 60% the 2d, and 100% the 3d.

By spending 10 minutes in our office you will see the DEMONSTRATION and be convinced that you want to join the 600.

If you cannot call, write for particulars.

New York Life Insurance Co.

(Incorporated under the laws of the State of New York.)

346 & 348 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

TO THE POLICY-HOLDERS:

Life Insurance has suddenly taken on a new importance. Everybody wants it.

This indicates that the public has begun to understand the economic value of the principle on which life insurance rests, and it also demonstrates the high regard in which our life companies are held.

But do you realize:

1st. That for the mere privilege of rendering this economic service our life companies will be taxed in 1920 (between the States and the Federal Government) upwards of $27,000,000?

2d. That Federal laws are purposely so framed that the use of life insurance to protect estates is not encouraged. Immediately following death the Federal Government exacts heavy cash payments whatever the character of the estate. Without life insurance such payments are always difficult and sometimes impossible?

3d. That the proceeds of life insurance must under the Federal law be included in the decedent's estate and taxed accordingly—unless payable to named beneficiaries; in that case such proceeds are exempt up to $40,000?

Just a word about those queries:

(1) A life insurance premium is essentially a tax, voluntarily levied, primarily for the protection of the family, but very directly for the benefit of the state. The government, in taxing life insurance, indulges in the barbarism of taxing a tax. It would be scarcely more unsound for the government to tax its own income.

(2) Death Duties can readily destroy a perfectly solvent estate unless cash can be raised quickly. Life insurance can quickly provide cash, but the laws limit and hinder its use.

(3) A policy taken to replace in part the value to a corporation of an exceptional man may under the Federal Income Tax yield only 20% to the corporation; the government taking 80%.

(4) The States also collect heavy death duties on insurance payable to estates.

All these taxes are in addition to the $27,000,000 of taxes referred to in the first query; they are economically unsound and silly.

I speak of them because with your present keen interest in life insurance it is time that your representatives at Washington and in your State Capital heard from you.

THE YEAR 1919.

For the New York Life 1919 was in many respects the greatest year in its history.

Our new business ($531,000,000) exceeded the new business in any previous year by nearly $200,000,000. Our new business was written exclusively on the lives of individuals who made application to the Company and does not include any so-called Group insurance.

Our Mortality returned to normal figures, after the heavy mortality from influenza in 1918, which extended through the first four months of 1919.

The Russian Soviet Government by decree made life insurance a government monopoly in Russia and proceeded to liquidate the business of all life insurance companies, both domestic and foreign. Having by this decree assumed our liabilities the government took possession of our property in Russia, including our investments which were chiefly railroad bonds guaranteed by the Russian Government, and purchased with moneys accumulated from premiums paid by Russian policy-holders.

With the concurrence of the Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York, approved by the Convention of Insurance Commissioners of the various States, we have eliminated both Russian assets and Russian liabilities from our statement for the year 1919.

There are no material complications elsewhere in our foreign business.

The decrease in assets at the end of 1919, by comparison with assets at the close of 1918, is due to the elimination of the Russian business and to the fact that in the assets at the close of 1918 there were about $22,000,000 which we had borrowed to purchase Liberty Bonds.

Taking account of these items, the assets in 1919 made a normal increase.

Safety funds increased during the year over $5,000,000.

On December 31 our investments in Liberty Bonds and Victory Notes exceeded $100,000,000.

This Day in History—February 18, 1920

THIS is the anniversary of the death, in 1546, of Martin Luther, at Wittenberg. The great movement started by Luther swept over Europe and, finding expression in a determination to break from the Catholic Church, plunged the nations into a bloody warfare of Catholics versus Protestants.

A Nine Days' Wonder

SOMETHING that causes a sensation and then passes away, forgotten things, has been styled a "nine days' wonder." The expression is supposed to originate from the fact that cats and dogs are born blind and continue so for nine days, until the eyes are opened.

"April Folly," soon to be seen in leading motion picture theatres, is a Cosmopolitan production, released through Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft picture, under direction of Robert Z. Leonard. Scenario by Adrian Johnson.

"I THOUGHT that was the sea. If it's only the wind, I don't mind." She rose, half hesitating. "I love wind."

"I think it would be very unwise for you to go," said Kenna quietly. Sarle thought him infernally interfering, though he heard nothing in the words but friendly counsel. To April the remark contained a threat, and she gave way with as good a grace as she might, holding out her hand to say good-night to him.

"Perhaps I had better postpone acquaintance with the [illegible] as long as possible." The words were for Kenna, her smile for Sarle.

"I will see you to the lift," the latter said. Kenna could hardly offer to come, too, but as it was just across the lounge to the hall, and within range of his eye, perhaps he thought it did not matter. He could not know that Sarle's sauntering with a careless air beside her was [illegible] and only for her [illegible]

"It is quite [illegible] instead of taking the lift [illegible] down the main staircase, you would find a door almost opposite, leading into the garden. I think you promised?" His voice was very pleading.

Did Not Answer

She did not answer or even turn his way. But once safely in the lift, out of the range of Kenna's gimlet eyes, over the shoulders of the stunted brown lift-boy she let her glance rest in his, and it told him that he would have his wish.

There must have been some witchery in that southeast wind. She knew it was madness to go, that she was only entangling herself more closely in a mesh which could not be unraveled for many days. Yet within half an hour she was out there in the darkness, with the wind tearing at her hair and flinging her coat about her like a silken sail.

When she closed the door behind her and went forward, it was like plunging into an unknown purple pool full of dark objects swaying and swimming beside her in the fleeting darkness. Tendrils of flowering plants caught at her with twining fingers. A heavily scented waxen flower, pallid as the face of a lost soul, stooped and kissed her from a balcony as she passed.

The young trees were like slim girls bowing to each other with fantastic grace; the big trees stood together, "terrible as an army with banners," raging furiously is an uproar like the banging of a thousand breakers upon a brazen beach. The sky was full of wrack—with a [illegible] of moon flying across it and a scattering of lost stars.

More Alive

She felt more alive and vital than ever in her life before. The clamor of the storm seemed to be in her veins as well as in her ears. She was glad with a wild, exultant happiness of which she had never dreamed when she found herself snatched by strong arms and held close, close. The maelstrom whirled about her, but she was clasped safe in a sheltered place. Sarle kissed her with long, silent kisses.

There was no need for words, their lips told the tale to each other. It seemed to her that her nature expanded into the vastness of the sea and the wind and the stars, and [illegible] part of them. But all the [illegible] being just a [illegible] girl, held [illegible] heart!

[illegible] the sea to find [illegible] and given them to each other. [illegible] count of time and place [illegible]. The [illegible] of her [illegible] left her [illegible] and Vereker Sarle [illegible] and were here alone together in this wind-racked wilderness of perfumed darkness and mystery. Her ears and mind were closed to everything [illegible]

"My darling! My darling! I have waited for you all my life! Women have been nothing to me because I knew you were somewhere in the world. I have crossed the veld and the sea a thousand times looking for you and have found you at last. I will never let you go." He kissed her throat and her eyes. More than ever her whiteness shone in the gloom [illegible] of a [illegible] makes me [illegible] he whispered in her hair. "[illegible] give me and will give yourself [illegible]"

"I love you, Kerry. I give myself to you."

She rejoiced in her beauty because it was a precious gift to him.

"You [illegible] know what you mean to me. I [illegible] a star dropped out of heaven, the pure air of the veld I love, white lilies growing on a mountain-top. Thank God you are all these things without any darkness in you anywhere! It is the crown of a man's life to love a woman like you."

A chill wind blew across her soul and exultation passed from her.

"Let me go, Kerry," she said. "It is late. I must go."

He did not notice that her voice was broken with tears, for the wind swept her words up to the trees and the boiling wrack of clouds beyond. But he knew that it was time for her to go. That wild pool of love and wind and stars was too sweet and dangerous a place for lovers to linger in. He wrapped her cloak about her and sheltered her back to the door from which she had emerged.

"Tomorrow morning. I shall be waiting for you in the lounge. We will settle then how soon you will give yourself to me—it must be very soon, darling. I am forty-four and can't wait a minute."

The Test of Courage

The light from the door fell on his face and showed it happy and gay as a boy's. Her face was hidden, or he must have recognized the misery stamped upon it.

In the morning light it seemed to her that the finger of snow on her hair had broadened a little. It was 5 o'clock of an ice-green dawn, with the mountain like an ashen wraith outside and the wind still raging. Southeasters last for three days, Kenna had said, and she shuddered to look at that unseen power whipping the leaves from the trees, beating down the beauty of the garden, tearing the mists from the mountain's sides only to pile them higher upon the summit.

It took courage to go out into that wind, but it took greater courage to stay and meet Vereker Sarle. So she was dressed and hatted with a small suitcase in her hand, and started on a journey to the Paarl. She did not know what the Paarl was, or where. Her first introduction to that strange name was at midnight, when she had found it in one of the letters addressed to Diana.

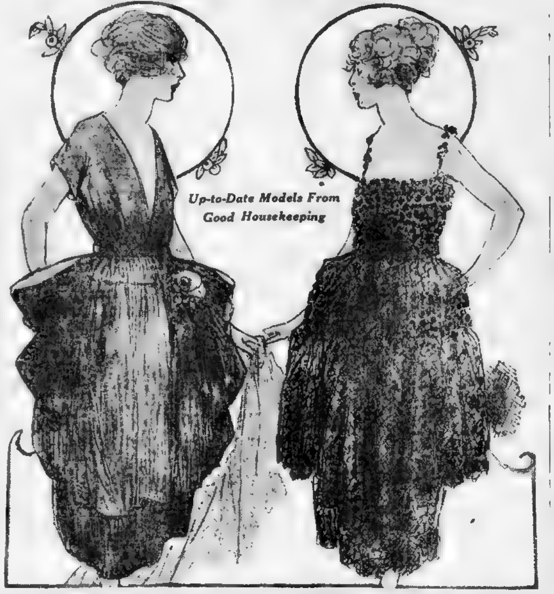
The Big Paris Pannier



Up-to-Date Models From Good Housekeeping

The charming, bright green taffeta gown at the left shows enormous panniers of large loops, lined with silver to give them a shimmer, and finished to one side with pink roses.

At the right is an original creation in this black lace grown over yellow, on which hundreds of little black velvet flowers with yellow centres have been strews.

The Two Voices

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

DORIS frowned with vexation. "You are disposing of my time and of me in a very high-handed manner," she burst forth. "And what if I say that I will not act a lie for you, or for Hugh Rodney, or for anyone?"

Ruth paled suddenly. A look of fear crept into her eyes.

"Doris," she pleaded, "surely you would not—you could not refuse at a time like this to do your part—even if, as you intimate, you are not sure that you love Hugh!"

But Doris had all the stubbornness of the self-indulgent person.

"I simply cannot stand being with him as he looks now," she affirmed. "And, Ruth—I do not want you to be angry—and I know I can trust you not to breathe to anyone what I have to tell you. But—well—I had a talk with Ralph Norton last night and I suddenly realized then that I care more for him than for Hugh.

"It would be hypocritical for me to pretend to love Hugh when I am almost sure that I don't. It would only raise hopes that must be dashed later. It would not be fair to Hugh nor to Ralph either."

"But you may be mistaken, Doris," Ruth pleaded, as if her own happiness depended upon this girl's action. "Do not be so sure until you have given yourself time to judge fairly."

"Oh, I have judged fairly already and have reached a decision. I shall not see Hugh until he is better."

"Don't say that yet, Doris."

"I do say it—and shall continue to say it."

"But I promised you would see him. His recovery may depend upon the keeping of that promise."

"You made it—not I."

Ruth's face was very white. "Then," she said solemnly, "I will have to keep it."

"What do you mean?" Doris asked curiously. Her sister's tone made her wonder.

"I mean," was the slowly uttered explanation, "that until Hugh is stronger I shall keep the promise I made for you. I shall let him think that I am you."

"You wouldn't!"

"I will!"

"What if I forbid you to do this?—what if I refuse to let you pretend to be me?"

Doris was sitting up in bed now, her eyes wide and incredulous, her cheeks crimson.

"Then I shall refuse to keep secret the fact that while you were engaged to one man you encouraged the attentions of—almost became engaged to—another."

Doris flinched. It was one thing to break an engagement. It was quite another to have it known that she broke it because of her betrothed's misfortune and because another man courted her while the man who loved and trusted her was absent and in trouble.

"You do not mean you would do that!" she exclaimed.

"I'd hate to—but if I am forced to it, I will," Ruth said sternly.

"What about Hugh?" Doris asked. "If he is so ill, he may die."

She did not note that her sister's fingers wrung each other cruelly.

"If," Ruth said, her lips twitching, "he does not recover, he will never know. If he does get well, he must know, and I shall tell him."

"And then what?"

"And then—he will hate me—that's all."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

THAT she had set her feet in a difficult path, Ruth Courtney appreciated. Yet even she did not suspect by how many thorns it was beset.

She had a frightened, solitary feeling as she closed the door of the bedroom behind her after her stormy scene with Doris. She loved her sister, but for the moment her sense of indignation and her disapproval of Doris' actions were almost overwhelming. Stronger still was her determination to save Hugh. These two sentiments drove her to the only course she could see ahead of her.

That she could not take that course without the assistance of others occurred to her now for the first time. What if Hugh's family were to fail her? What if they were to forbid her quixotic action?

She stood still, her hand on the balustrade, thinking hard. The beating of her heart increased in violence as she tried to peer into the future. This moved her to take the [illegible] of each minute as it came, and not look beyond.

"I have to telephone to Mr. Rodney," she reminded herself. "Until that has been done, I will not decide on my next move."

Hurrying down the stairs to the lower hall, she seated herself at the little table on which the telephone stood.

She called her number, and, as she waited, she heard the rustle of a dress. [illegible] that her mother had [illegible] to the door of the living room at the sound of her daughter's voice.

Ruth regretted this. She would find it easier to carry on her conversation with Mr. Rodney if she were not conscious of her mother's critical presence. Still, it could not be helped. She would pretend to be unaware of her parent's proximity.

The Cinema Murder

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

"YOU'RE a silly old thing, you know," she declared. "You found the courage, somehow, to break away from that loathsome existence. You had more courage, even, that I, because you ran a risk I never did. But here you are free, with the whole world before you, and your last danger disappearing with the knowledge that I am ready to be your friend and am sensible about everything that has happened.

"This ought to be an immense relief to you, Philip. You ought to be the happiest man on earth. And there you sit, looking like a death's-head! Look at me for a moment like a human being, can't you? Drink some more wine. There must be some strength, some manhood about you somewhere, or you couldn't have done what you have done."

He filled his glass mechanically. She leaned across the table. Her eyes were bright, her cheeks delicately pink.

"Courage, Philip," she murmured. "Remember that what you did * * * well, in a way it was for my sake, wasn't it?—for love of me? I am here now and we are both free. The old days are passed. Even their shadow cannot trouble us any longer. Don't be a sentimentalist. Listen and I'll tell you something—at the bottom of my heart I rather admire you for what you did. Don't you want your reward?"

"No," he answered firmly, "I don't."

She shrugged her shoulders and kept time with her foot to the music. Across the table, although she kept silence for a while, she smiled at him whenever she caught his eye. She was not angry, not even hurt. Philip had always been so difficult, but in the end so easily led. She had unlimited confidence in herself.

"Don't be a goose!" she exclaimed at last. "Of course you want your reward, and of course you'll have it, some day! You've always lived with your head partly in the clouds, and it's always been my task to pull you down to earth. I suppose I shall have to do the same again, but tonight I haven't patience. I feel suddenly gay. You are so nice-looking, Philip, but you'd look ten times nicer still if you'd only smile once or twice and look as though you were glad."

All a Nightmare

The whole thing was a nightmare to him. The horror of it was in his blood, yet he did his best to obey. Plain speaking just then was impossible. He drank glass after glass of wine and called for liquors. She held his fingers for a moment under the table.

"Oh, Philip," she whispered, "can't you forget that you have ever been a schoolteacher, dear? We are only human, and did suffer so. You know," she went on, "you were made for the things that are coming to us. You've improved already, ever so much. I like your clothes and the way you carry yourself. But you look—oh, so sad and so far away all the time! When I came to your rooms, at my first glimpse of you I knew that you were miserable. We must get rid of that, dear. Tell me how it is that with all your success you haven't been happy."

"Memories," he answered harshly. "Only a few hours before you came, I was [illegible]."

"Then you had better make up your mind," she told him firmly, "that you are going to climb out of there, and when you're out, you're going to stay out. You can't alter the past. You can't alter even the smallest detail of its setting. Just as inevitably as our lives come and go, so what has happened is finished with, unchangeable. It is only a weak person who would spoil the present and the future, brooding. You used not to be weak, Philip."

"I don't think that I am, really," he said. "I am moody, though, and that's almost as bad. The sight of you brought it all back. And that fellow Dane—I've been frightened of him, Beatrice."

"Well, you needn't be any longer," she declared. "What you want is some one with you all the time who understands you, some one to drive back those other thoughts when they come to worry you. It is really a very good thing for you, dear, that I came out to New York. Mr. Dane is going to be very disappointed when I tell him that I never saw you before in my life. . . . Don't you love the music? Listen to that waltz. That was written for happy people, Philip. I adore this place."

He did his best to be responsive, but he was not wholly successful. Nevertheless, she was tolerant with his shortcomings. They sat there until nearly three o'clock. It was she at last who rose reluctantly to her feet.

"I want to go whilst the memory of it all is wonderful," she declared. "Come. Here's a card with my address on. Drive me home now, please."

He paid his bill and they found a cab. She linked her arm through his, her head sank a little upon his shoulder. He made no movement. She waited for a moment, then she leaned back amongst the cushions.

"Philip," she asked quietly, "has this Elizabeth Dalstan been letting you make love to her?"

"Please don't speak of Miss Dalstan like that," he begged.

"Answer my question," she insisted.

"Miss Dalstan has been very kind to me," he admitted slowly, "wonderfully kind. If you really want to know, I do care for her."

"More than you did for me?"

"Very much more," he answered bravely, "and in a different fashion."

In the darkness of the cab it seemed to him that her face had grown whiter. Her arm remained within his, but it clasped him no longer. Her body seemed to have become limp. Even her voice, firm though it was, seemed pitched in a different key.

Forget Miss Dalstan

"Listen," she said. "You will have to forget Miss Dalstan. I have made up my mind what I want in life and I am going to have it. I shall draw my money tomorrow morning and afterwards I shall come straight to your rooms. Then we will talk. I want more than just that money. I am lonely. And do you know, Philip, I believe that I must have cared for you all the time, and you—you must have cared for me a little or you would never have done that for my sake. You must and you shall care, Philip, because our time has come, and I want you, please—shall I have to say it, dear?—I want you to marry me."

He wrenched himself free from her.

"That is quite out of the question, Beatrice," he declared.

She laughed at him mockingly. "Oh, don't say that, Philip! You might tempt me to be brutal. You might tempt me to speak horribly plain words to you."

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

AFTER a few months of prohibition and self boredom, it will be so easy for a girl to marry the average bachelor that it will seem almost "a shame to take the certificate."

Of course, you have the "right to propose" to a man in leap year, Geraldine; but you have also the "right of way" in front of a speeding automobile at a busy street crossing—if you care to take the consequences.

Isn't optimism wonderful? [illegible] of sublime faith who used to buy [illegible] the wife-deceiving breath tablets? Why [illegible] buying raisins and yeast cakes and things to drop them in now?

There are only two times in a man's life when he sheds tears, or contemplates suicide, over a woman—when he can't get her, and when he can't get away from her.

"Standardized raiment" for women is being enthusiastically advocated by the lecturers. Good heavens! Just as if we weren't all fagged out already trying to live up to the show girl's standard!

Most husbands and wives are like "Home"—delightful to get away from occasionally, but not unless you are sure that you have a latch key and a return-ticket in your pocket.

In these days of the H. C. of L. a girl's most dazzling castle in the air resolves itself into four rooms and kitchenette, three flights up—with the right man in it and the rent paid.

When a man starts out with the determination to be a cynic on the subject of women, he is suddenly bitterly embarrassed to discover how many lovable ones there are.

A man's love for a woman is all that which slops over from the exuberant self love with which she manages to inspire him.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Ladies! Try this! Darkens beautifully and nobody can tell—Brings back its gloss and youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not [illegible] for the cure, mitigation [illegible] of disease.—Advertisement.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" CHILD'S LAXATIVE

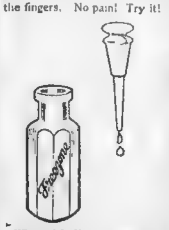
Look at tongue! Remove poisons from stomach, liver and bowels

Accept "California" Syrup of Figs only—look for the name California on the package, then you are sure your child is having the best and most harmless laxative or physic for the little stomach, liver and bowels. Children love its delicious fruity taste. Full directions for child's dose on each bottle. Give it without fear.

Mother! You must say "California."—Advertisement.

CORNS LIFT OUT! COSTS FEW CENTS

Drops of magic! Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little Freezone on a touchy corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it off with the fingers. No pain! Try it!



Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without soreness or irritation. Freezone is the much talked of discovery of the Cincinnati genius.

DOUBLE BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

"Danderine" creates mass of thick, gleamy waves

In a few moments you can transform your plain, dull flat hair. You can have it abundant, soft, glossy and full of life. Just get at any drug or toilet counter a small bottle of "Danderine" for a few cents. Then moisten a soft cloth with the "Danderine" and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Instantly, yes, immediately, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will be a mass, so soft, lustrous and so easy to do up. All dust, dirt and excessive oil is removed.

Let Danderine put more life, color, vigor, and brightness in your hair. This stimulating tonic will freshen your scalp, check dandruff and falling hair and help your hair to grow long, thick, strong and beautiful.—Advertisement.

CROWE IN PLEA FOR YOUTHS

Famous Kidnaper Urges Proper Vocational Training for Young Criminals

New York, Feb. 18.—Pat Crowe, who gained notoriety as the kidnaper of the Cudahy baby two decades ago in Chicago and who, since the expiration of his prison term, has devoted himself to welfare work, lectured before the first All-American concert at the Sixty-third street Music Hall on the national danger confronting the United States in the neglect of the education of its youth and the rehabilitation of juvenile criminals.

Mr. Crowe told a fashionable audience that boys of fourteen, fifteen, sixteen and seventeen years of age, unable to receive the proper vocational training because of economic conditions, often turned to careers of crime and ended their days in jail and disgrace. He advocated the lowering of the ages under the proposed universal training legislation so as to embrace such cases.

He read a letter he sent to Senator Wadsworth of New York, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, making recommendations in respect to the vocational features of the universal service program.

In this letter Mr. Crowe urges that vocational training be extended to include the class of fourteen years of age.

FAVOR $100 MONTHLY FOR DISABLED VETERANS

Washington, Feb. 18.—The House Committee on Education reported unanimously in favor of a bill which will raise the monthly allowance of disabled service men undergoing government vocational training from $80 to $100. The bill was introduced by Representative Barrow of Pennsylvania.

Colds Break

Get instant relief with "Pape's Cold Compound"

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up a cold and ends all grippe misery.

The very first dose opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages of your head; stops nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sneezing, soreness, stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance. Tastes nice. Contains no quinine. Insist on Pape's!

BOSTON AMERICAN LIMERICK CONTEST $250 EVERY DAY

For the Best Last Lines

Mrs. Palmer Ingersoll

192 Pine Street, Springfield, Mass. will be paid $150 for the "best last line" of
LIMERICK No. 11

The completed Limerick reads as follows:

A tourist from torrid Key West
Thought he'd give Boston's weather a test.
He landed here smiling,
But now he's reviling;
Spring will come, he'll forget, like the rest.

Mrs. Bessie M. Ingersoll, writer of the best last line to Limerick No. 11, is the wife of Palmer M. Ingersoll of No. 192 Pine street, Springfield. Mrs. Ingersoll said today, "I have always tried to solve all kinds of puzzles and reach the right solution since I was a child, but the American's Limerick contest is the first one that I ever entered into seriously. The $150 will go into our home fund." Mrs. Ingersoll is twenty-seven years old and lives with her husband and mother. Her husband is foreman of the Westinghouse Electric Co. at Springfield.

4 next "best last lines" of No. 11 Limerick were written by

NORMAN H. McLEOD, 12 Church St., Burlington, Vt.
ROBERT T. CHADBOURNE, 29 Middle St., Hallowell, Me.
MRS. RUTH K. LINKHART, 93 Highland St., Clinton, Mass.
JOHN J. REILLY, K. of C. Hut, Boston Common, Boston, Mass.

Each of whom will be paid $25.00 by the Boston American.

RULES:

1. Friday, January 30th, the Boston American commenced publication of a daily incompleted Limerick, and $100 will be paid for the "best last line" sent in by its readers completing Limericks Nos. 1 and 2. Beginning with Limerick No. 3, a total award of $250 will be given; first award, $150, and for the next four "best last lines" $25.00 each will be given. In the event of more than one person sending in the same "best last line," similar awards will be made.

2. No one is barred from participating except employes of the Boston American and their families, who are absolutely barred. No one may send in more than one "best last line" to each Limerick.

3. The blank printed herewith is for the convenience of the readers and the Editors, but you do not have to use this particular blank.

4. Each Limerick appearing in the Boston American will have a number, and the "best last line" must be sent in a sealed envelope, by mail, addressed to "Boston American Limerick Department," P. O. Box 235, Boston 8, Mass. On the outside of each envelope containing the "best last line" must be written or printed "Limerick No. ——." This is most important.

5. All "best last lines" must be received by the Limerick Department by 12 o'clock noon, four days after publication. Announcement of each award will be made in the Boston American one week after publication of each Limerick.

6. The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in or addition to these rules that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the proposition, and the decision of the Boston American Limerick Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entering of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

Boston American Limerick Editor,
P. O. Box 235,
Boston 8, Mass.

Limerick No. 17

He set up a nice little still,
To make his own whiskey at will,
But Uncle Sam caught him,
And now they have got him,

SELL NORTHWAY TRUCKS HERE

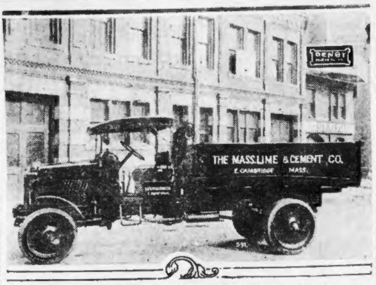
Excellent Machines on Display at Boylston Street Show Rooms

The Northway Motors Corporation recently opened its Boston show room and service station.

The new show room is situated at the corner of Brookline avenue and Boylston street, being 194-200 Brookline avenue and 1393-1399 Boylston street. The company had samples of its products on exhibition, including several 3½-ton trucks with various bodies and a number of two-ton trucks.

The Northway Motors Corporation has its factory at Natick. It has some 150,000 square feet of floor space and has been producing trucks since September 1.

The executive offices are at No. 1 Beacon street, Boston. James F. Cavanagh is president of the company and James F. Finneran, who is head of Woodward Drug Company, is treasurer. On the board of directors are Charles A. Cook, leather manufacturer of Danvers, Carl G. Davis of the American Saw & Manufacturing Company of Springfield and Arthur W. Palmer, clothing merchant Natick.



This is one of the five-ton Denby trucks which has been in active service for some time, doing heavy duty work about the city. Mr. Woodbridge, the local dealer, states that during the recent traffic tie-up due the storm Denby trucks did yeoman service for their owners and also acted as "Good Samaritans" to many who were stalled.

Sunshine and the Sea!

ATLANTIC CITY

The World's Greatest Winter and Spring Resort

Greatest in variety and unique interest—in the number and excellence of its hotels—in the preference and patronage given it by notable guests.

Winter days at Atlantic City are tempered by an inland sweep of the Gulf Stream, by dominating sunshine and its nearby forests of pine. Its wonderful seaside climate is most helpful. Its sports, its shops, its theatres, its boardwalk, amuse and interest. Its life is both social and recreational. Its nearness to New York, Philadelphia, Washington, attract the habitual patronage of these cities as well as noted guests from all parts of the country.

Atlantic City now! The clans are coming as never before. The 1920 Lenten Season will be the greatest in its history.

NEW FIRM SELLS GRANT IN N. E.

Veteran Auto Dealers Form Martin-Brackett Co. to Distribute Popular Make

There is a new firm in charge of the distribution of Grant motor cars in New England. It is composed of Stanley A. Martin and M. E. Brackett, both of whom have been prominently identified with the successful merchandising of motor cars and motor vehicles since the early days of the industry. Mr. Brackett, the president of the new company, which is known as the Martin-Brackett Company, Inc., is best known on account of his splendid managerial administration of the affairs of the General Motors and Truck Company in New England.

Stanley A. Martin, the treasurer of the company, began his career in New York City in 1903 with Banker Bros., who at that time represented the Pierce Arrow and Peerless cars. Mr. Martin has been identified with a number of different companies in New York and for the past four years he has confined his effort exclusively to Grant line of motor cars. He was a factory representative for the company with headquarters in New York.

About a year ago he assumed charge of the Grant interests in New England and now he has formed a partnership with Mr. Brackett for making the Grant better known and more widely appreciated throughout New England.

For the present the temporary headquarters of the Martin-Brackett Company will remain at No. 702 Beacon street.

Hearing Tomorrow on "Load Height" Bill

An important hearing on House Bill No. 116 to limit the height of loads to 11 feet from the ground, the width to 96 inches and the length overall to 28 feet will be held at Room 427 State House tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. This is an important matter to truck owners and the Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts urges all members and truck owners to be present.

The height limit is a new limitation and this bill also extends these limits to all vehicles and loads. The club believes the height limit should be increased to 12 feet and also believes the law should be amended to allow the Highway Department to grant annual permits to those needing them instead of requiring a permit to be obtained from every town every time you have to move

As Mr. Fixit

Dear Mr. Fixit: I am employed by a large department store and have twenty-six Fords. I overhauled one motor. It started perfectly on the magneto and when I shut it down to cool it has failed to run on the magneto since. There is a good spark from the plug to the magneto post in the switch. I have tried four new coil boxes and one from another car. Kindly advise trouble.

L. D. K., East Boston.

First take out all your spark plugs and lay them on the top of the motor connected with their proper wires and spin the motor and see if you get sparks to each one. This is a better method than shorting each one with a screw-driver. If you get a good spark, try the compression, as your valves might be stuck open. This would come from becoming overheated and the valve stems sticking in the guides. Drain sediment bulb in your carburetor and make sure that your gasoline is getting to your motor. If you have compression, a good spark and gasoline flowing freely to the carburetor you should have no trouble in making an adjustment which will run the motor. If you do not get a spark look over all your connections. The fact that the motor ran and did not start afterwards seems to indicate that the valves must either be open or you have a short in your electrical current or you have a stoppage in your gasoline line.

Dear Mr. Fixit: Will you please answer the following questions? Will a Ford motor run more quietly by putting on one of the latest heads to take the place of the old style? How much of a gap should be left on the ends of the rings when fitted to the cylinders and how much clearance should the pistons have when fitted? Would it make any difference in the lights if the Ford magneto was set closer together, say about eight to ten thousandths of an inch? I did this to mine and it made the motor start more easily but my lights seemed to burn out more quickly. How much of a job is it to take up the bearings on a Chevrolet?

C. W. KAY, Everett, Mass.

The new head would make no difference in the quietness of the motor but it would have a tendency to keep it cooler as there is more cooling surface in the water jacket. In regard to Ford piston rings, the clearance should be .002 and the piston should have a clearance of .004. If you change the magneto your car might start more easily but your lights would burn out more quickly because you have too much current. The setting for the best efficiency is from twenty-five to forty one-thousandths of an inch. If you would tell us to which bearings you refer on the Chevrolet it would make the answer much simpler. It is quite a mechanical job to take up the bearings of any car.

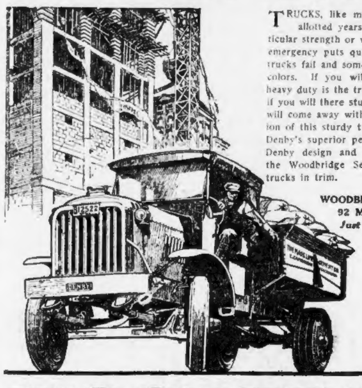
F. N. HAMMOND IS PORTAGE SALESMAN

Announcement is made by the Portage Rubber Company, Barberton, Ohio, of the appointment of F. N. Hammond as special representative of the sales department. Mr. Hammond is well known among tire men and has an extensive knowledge of the needs of the retail industry.

Mr. Hammond made a decided success as Goodyear branch manager in Cleveland for a number of years. In Detroit, as Kelly-Springfield branch manager, he greatly increased the sales in the State of Michigan and a reflection of his past successes is seen in his appointment by the Portage Company.

AGAIN EXTEND TIME ON N. Y. AUTO LICENSES

Commissioner Cole of the Department of Public Works has received a second request that police officers and officials in Massachusetts be informed that New York State has made another extension of time for the use of 1919 auto registration plates, as well as operators' licenses, until March 1, 1920. New York has been unable to cover its registration applications for 1920 numbers.



DENBY
MOTOR TRUCKS

TRUCKS, like men, may live through their allotted years without revealing any particular strength or weakness. It is when a real emergency puts quality to the test that some trucks fail and some come through with flying colors. If you will go to the places where heavy duty is the truck's everyday portion, and if you will there study Denby performance, you will come away with the highest possible opinion of this sturdy truck. And the reasons for Denby's superior performance are these: First, Denby design and construction; and Second, the Woodbridge Service which keeps Denby trucks in trim.

TEACHERS GET LESS PAY THAN BOOTBLACKS

A scathing arraignment of the low compensation paid to American teachers and ministers made by Guy A. Ham, and a divergence in views between Mr. Ham and Commissioner of Immigration J. H. Skeffington on the question of capital and labor, featured the banquet of the Massachusetts Home Furnishers' Association at the Boston City Club.

Mr. Skeffington stigmatized leading American manufacturers as "Bourbons" and Mr. Ham accused employes of "inefficiency and lack of co-operation."

Mr. Ham expressed himself as being unable to coincide with the opinion of the commissioner concerning the distribution of blame in the capital-labor controversies. He assailed the masses, not only of this country but of Europe as well, on the grounds of extravagance, citing the universal demand for silk stockings to the exclusion of cotton ones.

In a fierce attack upon the "disproportionate scale of pay" he demanded whether "America cares less for her soul and the mental development of her growing generations than she does for the digging of ditches? The teacher gets less than the man who shines your shoes or digs your sewers. The minister receives wages which would be repudiated with scorn by the humblest day laborer in the land."

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a comittee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Should Repeal Wartime Ban on Freedom of Speech

State Senator Samuel B. Finkel has offered a resolution in the General Court declaring for the repeal of those laws passed by the Congress during the war suppressing our ancient liberty of speech and freedom of the press now that the war is really over.

It ought not to be necessary for any body of citizens in the United States to pass such a resolution. It ought to have been the very first work of Congress after war actually ceased to repeal those dangerous restrictions upon the liberty of the citizen—a liberty which is a greater essential to democracy than any other protected right under the Constitution of the United States.

The majority in Congress cannot plead in extenuation of their failure to repeal the restrictive war laws that the war is not technically over, for they do not believe in any such puerile distinction between the real ending of the war at the armistice and a technical state of war, which President Wilson's obstinacy concerning the League of Nations and his equally obstinate and unfair interweaving of the League of Nations with the treaty of peace has unreasonably continued.

But if it is necessary, as it clearly is, to remind Congress that the time has come to repeal these encroachments upon the liberty of opinion, a body of Massachusetts representatives is the most fitting body to sound the first note of warning. We have had free speech in this Commonwealth ever since we existed, and we have been famous for the freedom with which we exercised our right to express our opinon on anything and everbody.

Freedom of speech and freedom of the press are very precious rights to the people of Massachusetts. It was here within a few weeks that leading citizens of the State started a protest against recent attempts to frighten the public into an hysterical acquiescence in repressive measures utterly inconsistent with democracy. The voice raised on that occasion in Massachusetts was heard throughout the whole nation and started a reaction against this dangerous tendency which has stopped it almost dead in its tracks.

Now this absurd hunting of alleged "Reds" has ceased to be fashionable, and politicians, too cowardly to attack a real issue, have ceased to seek a reputation for courage by attacking bogies. Even certain detectives have ceased for a while to ply their trade, which is manufacturing evidence against alleged radicals for the purpose of revealing evidence which they have made themselves to someone who has more money than brains and will pay for the stuff.

We hope that the Legislature will pass Senator Finkel's resolution and will add its voice to that of judges and bankers and labor organizations and college presidents and liberals everywhere against the tendencies so dangerous to American democracy which have come out of the war alleged to have been waged to make the world safe for democracy.

Dismissal of Lansing Shows Up Great Political Evil

The peevish dismissal of Secretary Lansing brings out in sharp relief the greatest defect in our government, which is the responsibility of the Cabinet Ministers to the President instead of to the people's representatives in the Congress.

This identical feature was the one feature of the Imperial German Government upon which Mr. Wilson based his argument that the German government was in fact an autocracy, while in form a constitutional limited monarchy.

It happens, though Mr. Wilson seems not to have known it, that the makers of the constitution of the German Empire copied this feature from our own practice, though a strong minority favored the British practice of direct ministerial responsibility to the Parliament.

That the practice of having a ministry responsible to the executive and irresponsible to the popular representatives was bad for Germany, no one now doubts. It led to abuses of executive power and finally to the ruin of the empire.

And the same practice has led to gross abuses and usurpations of power by the present Executive, and may eventually lead to the loss of liberty and the ruin of our republic if it is persisted in.

This is one of many good reasons why we should hold a Constitutional Convention and radically revise the Constitution.

That Mr. Lansing appears to much the better advantage and that Mr. Wilson cuts a poor and peevish figure in this public laundry contest few deny.

But, after all, those are temporary incidents, and the matter of which we speak is vital and permanent.

Two years from now no one will stop to inquire whether Mr. Lansing is fishing or trying a lawsuit, and nobody will ask whether Mr. Wilson is nursing his lacerated pride or a sore toe.

But everybody will be for years to come either a free citizen of a real democracy or a partly-free citizen of a disguised autocracy, depending upon whether or not we permit a naturally domineering and arrogant person in the White House to surround himself with a Cabinet of courtiers and obedient lackeys, or whether we have the sense and courage to substitute ministerial responsibility to the Congress for the present system of Cabinet irresponsibility to the Congress and freedom from popular control.

Mr. Wilson is constantly emphasizing the weakness of the people when an arrogant and peevish President confronts the popular will, but this time he has served the country well by really awakening it to the danger of this feature of Cabinet irresponsibility to the Congress.

More Truth Than Poetry

An Encouraging Reward

By S. E. KISER

WE have made a lot of heavy sacrifices,
 We heard them when their backs were to the wall,
With money and with blood we've paid the prices,
 But they tell us we are selfish, after all!
We dropped all else, risked everything to save them,
 We left the easy way and took the rough;
All we had to give we generously gave them,
 Yet they seem to think we haven't done enough.

WHEN hunger and defeat and fear had led them
 To falter and confess the doubt they had,
We fought for them, we worked for them, we fed them,
 They accepted all we offered and were glad;
They didn't ask for terms or halt at credit,
 They mentioned no conditions or demands;
They took us at our word, as we had said it,
 Not bartering, but holding out their hands.

WE are paying, and our payments will continue
 Long after all the scars of war shall fade;
We have paid with bread and gold and tears and sinew—
 With all things that are precious we have paid!
We are sweating under burdens that are hateful,
 We are limping over stretches that are rough;
But they curse us now, instead of being grateful,
 And they tell us that we haven't done enough.

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—You seem to be able to solve a lot of problems about newly married couples and also settle disputes that come from the old-timers who can't get along, so I want to ask you if through your column you will let me read what you have to say about this pair of old-timers. He was jealous of her, and she didn't care for him, and I tried to make peace between them. Then they both jumped onto me, and in the end I landed in the station house with a discolored eye and everything else that goes with it. What's your advice to a fellow in my position?

EDWARD R.

DEAR EDWARD.
ONCE ON a time.
WE HAD a dog.
• • •
AND IN the neighbor's house.
THERE WAS a cat.
AND OUT in the alley.
ONE SUNDAY morning.
THEY CAME together.
AND OUR Airedale.
HAD THE neighbor's cat.
BACKED INTO a corner.
AND A nice big dog.
FROM A block away.
GOT WIND of the scrap.
HE EDGED his way in.
AND OUR Airedale dog.
AND THE neighbor's cat.
FORGOT THEIR quarrel.
AND LOOKED him over.
AND THE last I saw.
WAS THE nice big dog.
WITH THE neighbor's cat.
HALF WAY up his back.
AND OUR Airedale dog.
WITH A very firm grip.
ON THE back of his neck.
AND THE three of them.
WERE ON their way.
TO THE big dog's home.
AND THEY left him there.
AND BOTH came back.
AND AFTER that.
THEY WERE very good friends.
AND I'VE always thought.
THAT THE nice big dog.
COULD HE have known.
WOULD HAVE been very glad.
THAT HE'D brought peace.
TO A quarreling pair.
AND PERHAPS after all.
WHEN YOUR two friends.
GOT THROUGH with you.
AND LEFT you safely.
IN THE station house.
WITH YOUR eye messed up.
THEY MIGHT have felt.
AS OUR Airedale dog.
AND OUR neighbor's cat.
AND HAVE trotted away.
WITH PEACE in their souls.
AND IF that is true.
THEN YOU brought peace.
AS YOU tried to do.

I THANK you.

HOW TO TELL VALUE OF ORIENTAL RUGS

By Dr. H. S. Jelalian

ORIENTAL rugs wear for centuries in Persia and Turkey, the home of their production, because the home life of the people is very simple there. They do not wear hard-heeled shoes in the house, and furthermore they do not own heavy tables and chairs, which frequently create creases on rugs by their back-and-forth friction.

In the East a good rug is considered just as we consider a valuable picture. It is a sacred possession to be handed down from generation to generation. On the other hand, an American dining room is the death-bed of an Oriental rug. So no Oriental rug can be made antique in this country. Before it is antique it is worn out. Now, when a dealer calls his rug "antique," he means an old rug well preserved.

Three Varieties

The three principal varieties of rugs on the market are Persian, Turkish and Indian. All the others may be considered as the sub-divisions of these.

Usually it is easy to find out whether a rug was woven by a Moslem or a Christian. The former inserts somewhere on the rug a verse or so from the Koran, while the latter marks a cross. The perfection of the weaver's art consists in his keen sense of color and design symmetry. Without this quality of mind he is a slovenly dabbler.

Wool Predominates

Wool is the predominating material used in the production of rugs, although camel's hair, silk and cotton are also extensively used. In modern Indian carpets cotton is predominating. No rug can wear forever.

In the selection of Oriental rugs for your home, do not insist upon mechanical perfection and geometrical precision of their sizes and designs. Defect in these regards would rather enhance the value of an Oriental rug, because it is a sign of genuineness. After all, the supreme quality of an Oriental rug consists in its being hand-woven. A machine-made rug will be so symmetrically perfect and geometrically correct that it will be an Oriental rug no more.

Letters to the Editor

No Foreign Flag

Editor Boston American:

On general principles it seems to me clear that if the ex-German ships are to be sold they should be sold for an adequate price, and I should be very sorry to see them transferred to a foreign flag.

HENRY L. SHATTUCK.

Nucleus of Fleet

Editor Boston American:

What a magnificent nucleus the ex-German ships form for Uncle Sam's merchant fleet of the future! If ever, now is the time for the United States to beware of Britain and her tricks and also to remember that eternal vigilance is the price of a merchant fleet.

ENSIR K. F. RONKA,
Boston University.

Gas Rate Increase

Editor Boston American:

Thank you very much for your editorial in the February 10th American. An audit of the gas company's books by a disinterested auditor will show whether the increase is necessary, and this cost will be as nothing compared to the amount the city of Boston will save monthly in its gas bill if this increase does not go into effect. And this is saying nothing of the great general public.

We have been to City Hall to enter our protest, and if all the newspapers of Boston that stand for "right" will back us up in this very important matter, by giving it publicity, something interesting will happen.

SILENCE IS BEST WAY TO TREAT THE BOY

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

THE family may be the mainstay of the nation, but it is certainly the cause of a large part of the trouble in this world.

And the reason for it lies, not in the institution itself, but in the abuse of it, in the unwarranted and often disgraceful behavior of the family's component members.

"Birds in their little nests agree," as Dr. Isaac Watts edifyingly pointed out. But do families profit by this happy example? Far from it. More often they use the home circle as a place to vent their grouches and to indulge in satiric criticism and fault-finding of a character which they would not dare employ elsewhere.

That blood is thicker than water must surely be true, when one thinks of all that the members of families put up with from one another and still continue to live together.

Usually, too, it is one particular member of the family who causes most of the inharmony, and through his selfishness and lack of consideration makes life miserable for all the rest.

"Anxious Sister's" Problem

A situation of the kind has been put up to me by a young girl and she asks me to try and tell her how to meet it.

"I have two brothers," she writes, "of the ages of seventeen and nineteen, whom I will call A and B. Five years ago they had a quarrel over a mere trifle, and ever since have not been speaking to each other. As you can imagine, this has caused a lot of trouble in our home.

"A is always saying that he will leave home if we attempt to interfere with him, and one morning after a quarrel he did leave, but he came back again that same evening. Even the mention of B's name is enough to throw him into a violent passion at any time.

"What would you advise us to do?—AN ANXIOUS SISTER."

The first thing I would do, "Anxious Sister," is to quit being anxious.

This hostility between brothers of that age is not an uncommon phase of boyhood, although a little longer drawn out in this instance than is usually the case.

Efficacious Treatment

All boys love to pose for effect. They are continually dramatizing themselves in one role or another, and so long as they can gain notice by doing it they will keep on. The treatment for this complaint is to pay no attention to him.

Indifference is the one thing which no holder of a pose can stand.

IT'S THE WIFE DOES THE SUNDAY COOKING.

Mr. Married Man, what about the Sunday rest for your wife?

Isn't it a fact that you want a bigger dinner, more elaborate service and feel pretty proud to invite some of the fellows from the office or shop out Sundays, largely to show off what an establishment you have at home?

Wife is glad to more than do her share, cooking and serving a delicious meal, using the best table linen and silver, and being obliged also to see that the children and herself are dressed in Sunday best to correspond.

That she not only spent several more hours in the kitchen on Sunday than she must on other days, that she has also several hours to spend washing and ironing the fine linen and shining and counting and putting away the extra silver, and then must clean the gravy off Tommy's suit, and never can get the peach stains off the "dolled up" little girlie—these things don't count, eh?

You can chat and smoke, and swell up with pride, and feast and sun and bask yourself in your lovely home with your outside friends who would not sit up one night with your baby with the croup, eh?

Suppose you dig in and help your wife Sundays, and see that she gets out somewhere on holidays, and then you both can rest together.
